FENWAY PARK, BOSTON, Oct. 9.—The American league champions do battle with the New York Giants, pennant winners of the National league, in the second game of the world's series. The contest at New York, the Eastern team marched on Fenway park held to a tremendous welcome from a home crowd. Mayor John F. Fitzgerald of Boston led in the cheering.

The weather was fair and the edge of a sharp westerly breeze was what called by the sun. Heavy clouds covered the sun at times.

The bleachers and unreserved grandstand crowd came early and long before the game began and the best seats were taken with only a few naked spots near the back fences to care for the latecomers.

The New York fans, undiminished by the defeat of the Giants, showed approval of the fast practice of the National league and predicted that with Mathewson pitching the Red Sox would be doomed to defeat today. The New York crowd, mostly from the south and of the colored waders of the Red Sox, would win the series.

The Giants wore their regular uniform of dark gray with black pinstripes. They began to warm up on the field while Mathewson and Speckler were in the box. The Red Sox wore their new uniform of light blue and white with light blue pinstripes.

One look found only a few empty seats in the reserved stands and bleachers but the main grandstand filled slowly. The batting order for today's game follows:

Red Sox: Speaker, 2b; Doyle, 3b; Collins, p; Lewis, 1b; Gardner, ss; Wagner, cf; Mathewson, c.

Giants: Klein, 1b; Evans, 2b; O'Rourke, 3b; Mathewson, p; Myers, cf; Fletcher, ss; Mathewson, c.

First Inning. New York—The first ball pitched was a curve. Speaker struck out. The second ball pitched into the bleachers for a two base hit. Doyle struck out. Collins used three wild, sweeping curves to turn the New York batter back. Becker was out. Yerkes to Stahl. Yerkes batted. Becker's grounder, Snodgrass took. That was called and the umpire's head "chase." The photograph of the ball. The first ball on Murray was called a strike and the crowd cheered. Collins threw out Murray at first base. No runs. One hit. No errors.

Second Inning. Boston—Becker scratched an foul hit. Mathewson only being out. A knock down the ball, which he could not power in time. This started the Boston fans cheering. Hooper was out. The batter was safe on first. It was a miserable error by the New York short stop. Speaker beat out a ball and the bases were filled, with none out. The crowd broke into continued cheering. Mathewson out. First ball over on Lewis for a strike. The second ball pitched was a strike.

Third Inning. New York—Snodgrass tied out. Hooper, Collins used a fast-breaking curve over the corners of the plate. Hooper was out on a foul to Gardner. Becker went out. Wagner to Lewis. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Fourth Inning. New York—Murray got a three base hit to right. Mathewson was out on a high foul to Gardner. Murray scored on a single to right. Wagner being unable to knock down the ball. Fletcher filed out to Hooper. One run. Two hits. No errors.

Fifth Inning. New York—Mathewson was now pitching in best form and when he sent the ball to the New York fans applauded him. Mathewson was a strikeout victim and Carrigan dropped the third strike, threw the New York batter out at first. Snodgrass also fell a victim to Collins' wild and fanned. Doyle filed out to Lewis. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Sixth Inning. Boston—Becker scratched an foul hit. Mathewson only being out. A knock down the ball, which he could not power in time. This started the Boston fans cheering. Hooper was out. The batter was safe on first. It was a miserable error by the New York short stop. Speaker beat out a ball and the bases were filled, with none out. The crowd broke into continued cheering. Mathewson out. First ball over on Lewis for a strike. The second ball pitched was a strike.

Hooper was forced out at the Collins struck out. Hooper went out. Yerkes to Meyer. Yerkes scored on an infield out off Gardner. The play was Mathewson to Doyle to assist. Speaker and Lewis scored on Stat's hit drive to left. Wagner went out on a high fly to Doyle. Three runs. Three hits. One error.

Second Inning. New York—The stands were simply mad with excitement as the Boston took the field. Merkle fanned on the first three balls pitched. Herzog knocked a three bagger to right center. Herzog scored on Meyer's hit which struck Gardner in the face. Gardner rubbed his head and seemed pretty badly shaken up but he continued to play. Fletcher sent a fly to Hooper and was out. Mathewson was given an out on the ground as he went to the left. Meyer's grounder and threw to Mathewson's grounder and threw to Wagner. One run. Two hits. No errors.

Boston—Carrigan went out. Herzog to Merkle. Doyle made a brilliant play when he took Collins' grounder and threw him out at first. Hooper doubled to right. Yerkes was out. Fletcher to Merkle. No runs. One hit. No errors.

Third Inning. New York—Snodgrass tied out. Hooper, Collins used a fast-breaking curve over the corners of the plate. Hooper was out on a foul to Gardner. Becker went out. Wagner to Lewis. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Fourth Inning. New York—Murray got a three base hit to right. Mathewson was out on a high foul to Gardner. Murray scored on a single to right. Wagner being unable to knock down the ball. Fletcher filed out to Hooper. One run. Two hits. No errors.

The batter was safe on first. It was a miserable error by the New York short stop. Speaker beat out a ball and the bases were filled, with none out. The crowd broke into continued cheering. Mathewson out. First ball over on Lewis for a strike. The second ball pitched was a strike.

Seventh Inning. New York—Herzog singled to right. Meyer popped out to Yerkes. Herzog stole second. Carrigan's throw being low. Fletcher popped out to Stahl. Matty struck out. No runs. One hit. No errors.

Eighth Inning. Boston—Shaffer fumbled Lewis' grounder and the runner beat the throw to first. Gardner sacrificed. Mathewson to Merkle. Lewis taking second. Stahl sent up a high foul, which Merkle dropped. Stahl went out on a fly to Mathewson, who threw the runner out at first. Lewis taking third on the play. Wagner was out on a grounder to Mathewson, who touched the runner on the line. No runs. One error. No hits.

Ninth Inning. New York—Herzog singled to right. Meyer popped out to Yerkes. Herzog stole second. Carrigan's throw being low. Fletcher popped out to Stahl. Matty struck out. No runs. One hit. No errors.

Tenth Inning. Boston—Shaffer took Wagner's grounder and threw him out at first. Carrigan went out by the Shaffer-Merkle route. Bedient was out. Mathewson to Merkle. No runs. No hits. No errors.

At this point the game was called on account of darkness.

100 STREET DEPT. EMPLOYEES IDLE

Commissioner of Streets Takes Action Because Money Was Not Appropriated

Alderman Brown has determined that streets is due to the municipal commission. Five whom has appropriation, and just will refuse to endorse his order to have that he has had on over a hundred. The order came in the form of a letter to the street department at the meeting of the municipal council yesterday. It was stated that only 14 of the 34 street sweepers were at work. This action was taken by Mr. Brown and was not on the part of the commissioner of streets.

Men Are After Brown. Some of the men who were laid out arrived at city hall bright and early this morning and entered in corridors and anterooms. It was finally decided to ascertain how much money Mr. Brown has at his disposal for general street work, repairing, sweeping, etc. One of the men allowed that Brown had money enough to go along until the frost is so deep in the ground that ordinary street work would be out of the question. They decided to go to the auditor's office and ascertain the status of Brown's appropriations.

Alderman Gives Interview. While the street department men were discussing their discharge, Alderman Brown was giving the city hall reporters an interview in his private office, but he talked very loud and most of the interview was heard in the corridors.

WHY? "You can say to the people of Lowell," said Mr. Brown, "that I am going to live within my appropriation. I will not be able to do any more regular work but I will endeavor to keep the streets as clean as possible. If the municipal council wants to give me more money to continue the good work of the last nine months the council may do so, but I will not ask for any more money. This will affect about 350 men between now and the first of January and I am sorry that my brother members in the municipal council have rendered it necessary for me to take the course that I am taking."

The street department has to care for 140 miles of streets in Lowell and I have endeavored to keep them clean and in good shape. I have done a lot of repair work but I cannot do any more because I have not the money to do it with.

Brown's Financial Status. The reporters after getting facts according to George in his private office took a slide down the marble stairs to the office of the finance commissioner just to find out how the alderman stood financially and this is how he stands: In the beginning of the year he was allowed $113,072.34 for street salaries and wages and of that amount he had expended up to last Saturday night, the sum of $108,886.69, leaving a balance of $4,185.65. There are some transfers to be taken from that balance, amounting in all to about $1000.

TWO SUITS FOR DAMAGES

Entered Against Street Railway Company for Wakefield Accident

At the superior court this morning a verdict was reported in favor of the plaintiff, Mr. Jean, in the Jean vs. Cawley cross suit, i. e. the sum of $558.15.

The session this morning opened at 10 o'clock and the first business was the selection of the 12 jurors. The first case called contained two actions, the defendant in both instances being the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. The first action was one for tort in which the plaintiff, Wanda Anderson, administratrix of the estate of Peter Anderson, claimed $10,000 damages. It was alleged in the plaintiff's declaration that Peter Anderson, husband of Wanda Anderson, was killed by an electric car operated by the Boston & Northern Co. and that his death was due to the negligence of the corporation. He left a widow and six children. The accident happened at Wakefield on Jan. 29, 1911, between Water street and New Salem street.

The second action was brought by William Lally, of Wakefield, who was also injured by the car on the same day, being in company with Anderson. Mr. Lally claims $10,000 damages, stating that he suffered a great deal of pain, that for a long time he was unable to work and that his medical expense was considerable.

The attorneys for the plaintiff were Foster and Butler and Trull and Wier.

BANQUET SERVED

Greenhalge Council, No. 100, Loyal Association, Dined Prominent Guests Last Night

The regular meeting of Greenhalge council, Loyal Association, last night, was preceded by a dinner served in the banquet hall connected with the lodge room. There were present Supreme Councilor A. W. Paulworth of New York city, State Sentinel Robeson of Boston, and Deputy Supreme Councilor Bruizer, also of Boston. These gentlemen were accompanied by Brothers Chandler, Martin and Bruce, members of Greenhalge council, but residents of Greater Boston. After the business meeting interesting remarks on the good of the order were made by the visiting brethren and an instrumental concert of rare merit was enjoyed by all.

GROUND BROKEN

For the New Auto Tire Plant That Will be Located in Middlesex Street

The Patterson Rubber company broke ground yesterday for its auto tire plant in Middlesex street just beyond the Shaw Machine company. The first sod was turned by John S. Patterson, president of the company; the second by Secretary John H. Murphy of the Lowell board of trade and the third by Charles O'Neil, the company's chief engineer. Work was begun today on the foundation for the first building which will be 200 by 65 feet, with a boiler house 65 by 35 feet. The first building has a tract of ten acres and the middle way of the lot. The plans of all the buildings show future extension toward Lowell. The company expects to have the building completed by January 1 and the erection of the building will be under the personal supervision of President John S. Patterson and Engineer Charles O'Neil. The new company has leased offices in the central block and is now ready for business.

PASSENGERS INJURED POLICE COURT CASES

At the South Station in Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—About a dozen passengers were injured at the South station yesterday when a train from Braintree crashed into the rear end of a Mattapan train which had just un-loaded its passengers. The rear car of the Mattapan train was knocked on top of the locomotive of the Braintree local and the platforms of the three rear cars of the Mattapan train were smashed.

The Braintree train, due at 8:10 a. m. on track 27, took a wrong switch and entered rapidly on track 28. The engineer said that he obeyed signals and the switch failed to work. About 250 passengers in the Braintree train, nearly all standing or moving towards the doors, were thrown to the floor. One young woman was hurled through one door across two platforms and into another car, falling with a scream. One arm was broken.

Few, if any, passengers were seriously hurt. Among those known to have been injured were Richard Hussey of West Quincy; Miss Alice O'Neill of Rogers street, West Quincy; Miss Mary Chisholm and Miss Sadie Chisholm of East Milton; and Dr. Trainor. All injured were treated at the station and sent home in automobiles.

JOHN EDWARDS

The Noted Bank Thief and Well-Known Inventor May Be Set Free For Saving Life of Overseer

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—John Edwards, the noted bank thief and burglar-proof time-lock inventor, is likely to be set free on parole for saving the life of Overseer Talbot in the Eastern penitentiary Monday. Talbot had been attacked with a knife by Leo Atwood, a negro convict. Edwards seized Atwood and was wounded in the struggle, while the overseer escaped and summoned help.

Edwards broke his leg several years ago in escaping temporarily from the penitentiary. Lately he has been a trustee. He has a score of patents to his credit, among them a device that makes it impossible, it is said, to pick a bank lock.

Considerable Number of Offenders Sent Away

Denis Forrest, John McDonald, Denis Murphy and Raper G. Blair, inmates of the state infirmary at Tewksbury, were arraigned before Judge Bright at a special session of the police court held this morning on complaints charging them with unlawfully escaping from that institution and soliciting alms in public.

The members of this quartet are like many other inmates of the institution who like to spend the winter months where they can secure food and lodging, but when the weather gets warm and there is no chance of their freezing by sleeping in the open, they take "French leave."

That is just what these four men did last July, but it is a case of the hens come home to roost, and the cold weather of yesterday compelled them to return to the only abode they knew of.

This morning the four were brought to the police station and after the charge had been read each entered a plea of guilty and sentences to the state farm in Bridgewater were in order. All accepted the order of the court with the exception of Blair who entered an appeal.

Later in the morning Blair was brought into court and after stating that he was a British subject, said he would withdraw his appeal on condition that he be allowed to communicate with the British consul. Judge Bright said he did not doubt that Blair's request would be granted when he reached the institution.

Sent to State Farm

Patrick J. McCormick makes trouble in Middlesex street, according to the police officers who patrol that section of the street between the Middlesex street station and Tower's corner. He was in police court again this morning and received another sentence to the state farm, he having received a similar sentence from Judge Bright when before the court for drunkenness yesterday morning.

After being sentenced yesterday McCormick entered an appeal and later in the day he secured bonds, but he had not been out of the cooler very long before he returned to his old haunts in Middlesex street and filled up.

As a result about 14 o'clock he was again arrested and appeared in court this morning, entering another appeal when sentenced.

Wanted to Go to Jail

As a general rule prisoners who are on trial do everything possible to escape going to jail or the state farm, but Elizabeth Hiley, who was charged with being drunk after entering a plea of guilty, asked the court if he would be kind enough to send her to jail for the winter. This was a rather unusual request, and both Judge Enright and Capt. Welch questioned her as to her reason for wanting to be locked up. She said she had no home and would prefer to go to jail until the spring. She was sentenced to five months in the house of correction, but after passing sentence Judge Enright said he did not

Wife of Lieutenant Becker Interested Spectator at Trial

MRS. CHARLES BECKER.
© 1912 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Charles Becker, wife of the police lieutenant on trial for the murder of Herman Rosen, quick and decided in speech, uncomplaining in attitude, one realizes after each day. There is nothing of the studying her that she is a woman who teary clinging vine about Helen Becker, makes up her own mind without consulting any other opinion. In person in outward seeming, there is an immense reserve force of hand headed practically about her easily discernible to the experienced observer. For years she has been a schoolteacher, and the so reluctantly because the women so requested.

Allowed to Leave City

Annie Boyle was found in an intoxicated condition in an alleyway on Central street yesterday, he Patrolman Lane. The woman said she belonged in Connecticut and came to this city during the recent strike and admitted that she had been arrested three times during that short period. She pleaded to be given a chance to go to her home and with that understanding the court gave her a suspended sentence of three months in jail and placed her in the custody of the probation officer for six months.

Other Offenders

John Reardon was fined $4, three first offenders were fined $2 each, and four simple drunks were released before the opening of court.

Stole a Bottle of Milk

Moses Gardner, who claims Providence, R. I., as his home, entered a plea of guilty to a complaint charging him with stealing a pint bottle of milk, the milk and bottle being of the value of nine cents, the property of some unknown person. While passing through East Merrimack street about 2:30 o'clock this morning Patrolman William Wilson saw Gardner take a pint bottle of milk out of a doorway and placed the man under arrest. The court imposed a fine of $5.

Lynn Shoe Factories

LYNN, Oct. 8.—Present labor conditions in Lynn have cost the city two more of its shoe factories, according to announcements made yesterday.

Seymour & Jackson, one of the oldest shoe firms in the city, closed its doors, throwing some 350 employees out of work. It is thought that the company intends to move to Philadelphia and join the Mrs. A. R. King Corporation, with which it has been closely allied.

The R. & G. shoe factory on Broad street will in a short time remove its factory to Newburyport. This move has been expected for some time, as George Gregory, head of the firm, stated some weeks ago that the recent labor trouble in Lynn, coupled with the high cost of material, made it imperative that they seek another location.

Given $2756 Verdict

Henry S. Townsend of Melrose was awarded a verdict in the superior civil court, East Cambridge, before Judge Hildreth, of $2756.25, against Chas. A. Barnham, Jr., et al, stock brokers, who did business under the name of Barnham, Bennett & Co. Townsend alleged that he bought certain stock through the company and never recovered the stock or the money.

Denounce Attitude of the I. W. W. Toward the Flag and American Institutions

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Veterans of the rebellion condemned the attitude of the I. W. W. toward Old Glory and American institutions in no mistakable terms at the forty-fourth anniversary camp fire of Benjamin Stone Post 65, G. A. R., at the quarters of the organization, Park street, Dorchester, last night. The affair was attended by several hundred.

The address of George A. Haskley, department commander of Massachusetts, in defense of the flag and in denunciation of those who have showed disrespect for it was enthusiastically applauded.

"In this old commonwealth there are many far from what an American citizen should be," declared Commander Haskley. "For example, we have had in Lawrence and other cities an illustration of that class of men who have neither respect for the government nor its institutions. They deride the home, church, God and humanity."

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

Royal Baking Powder exceeds others in leavening power, in purity and wholesomeness, and is used generally in families, exclusively in the most celebrated hotels and restaurants, by the United States Army and Navy, and wherever the best and finest food is required. Teachers of cooking schools and lecturers upon culinary matters use and recommend the Royal.

Royal is the only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It is admittedly the best and most healthful baking powder made.

PARADES WERE HELD TODAY

Great Crowds Gathered in the Cafes in Greek District in Market Street Today

Market street has the appearance of a holiday today as a large number of people were seen at all hours parading in the Greek district and gathering in the cafes along Market street. The main topic of conversation was the Balkan-Turkish trouble and expressions of sorrow could be heard from several who had made up their mind to go to the front at the first call, but who were prevented from doing so by the special call for the members of the Holy regiment. Several Greeks remained away from their work this morning and scores of them are flocking into President Thomas' office at 60 Jefferson street, three clerks are kept busy taking names of volunteers.

Ninety-seven members of the Holy regiment and reservists left the 6.25 o'clock train for Boston, from where they will board a train for Providence, R. I., where the Madonna of the Fabre line was waiting for them, this ship having sailed at noon, directly for Greece.

The members of the regiment who went are: Capt. Constantine Constantinidis, Lieut. John Perdikis, Lieut. John Gourgouris, Lieut. Louis Tiliakos, Anton Athanasoulas, Harris Marinis, Spero Gazoulas, Nikolaos Tjellios, Andreas Elitidis, George Karakaris, Stathanos Sakkas, Demetrios Sitsakis, Vasileios Zikos, Nikos Zestos, Demetrios Tsakanakis, John Karabinielis, Christos Karantjios, Emmanuel Saradakis, Constantine Kadjiorias, John Lolas, Evangelos Zistos, Demetrios Diamantopoulos, Peter Rallias, Christos Vrantzas, Anton Christophelias, Constantine Kommodatas, George Vlanas, George Tsapouras, Michael Contalis, Steros Tsatos, John Danavara, Demetrios Karanosopoulos, Alexius Bizes, Spero Kyriakos, Apostolos Hobotas, Athanasios Kantavocoulas, Evangelos Perdikis, Demetrios Sokarelis, Christos Katopis, Demetrios Antonopoulos, Demetrios Giamas, George Zatsos, Steros Samaras, John Pappaloukas, Nikolaos Jossis, Alexius Gagestaphis, Elias Pouloupis, Demetrios Kalevis, Theodosios Bobotus, Theodosios Manellus, John Gabriel, George Goucarenos, Gregogius Kougles, Steros Goutaras, Leonidas Diamantidis, Jos. Karyotis, Apostolos Pappathanasios, Geo. Karyotis, John Angeles, Apostolos Ioannas, John Doulos, Zacharias Christodoulou, Thomas Raggalis, Evangelos Pappadimitris, Ethenas Dexenas, Constantine Lialos, Vasileios Alchorides, Stathanos Giamas, Theodosios Tsilias, Geo. Theoharous, Epistheus Zaratarkis, Theophanes Zaratarkis, John Doulos, Nikitos Karyotis and Christos Maniotis.

The reservists who went are: Constantine Rouschou, George Carlis, Nikitos Mirmineas, Kyriakos Liareas, Vasileios Athanasios, John Annis, Elias Phourios, Mihail Mercatoris, John Cuperolis, Peter Stamos, Vasileios Rungus, Pan-giotis Yannopoulos and George Christakos.

Previous to their departure they all attended mass which was celebrated in Holy Trinity church in Jefferson street. The mass was celebrated at 10 o'clock by Rev. C. H. Demetrio and all received holy communion after which the banners and flags they are taking along with them were blessed. This was followed by the priest kissing each soldier on the forehead as a mark of special affection for him.

The soldiers were then escorted to the Middlesex street station by several thousand of their countrymen. They all marched through the military order and the procession was headed by the buglers of the regiment. When the party boarded the train they were given a royal send-off by the large crowd which had gathered at the station. The members of the regiment all wore their uniforms and carried suit cases, while their baggage had been checked.

Demosthenes Timagenis, Greek consul at Boston is expected here today by President Noulas of the Greek community for there is considerable work to be done and Mr. Noulas feels that the services of the consul are badly needed inasmuch as the latter volunteered to help in any way possible and to come to Lowell if necessary. Mr. Noulas will call upon his services today. The consul's work will consist of issuing certificates to reservists and volunteers. The latest orders received at the Boston consulate were to the effect that all volunteers under 21 years of age and others who wished to enroll will be accepted in the service and consequently some 40 more are expected to leave the city on the next boat to make the voyage to Greece.

A regular recruiting office conducted on military principles has been established at the office of Mr. Noulas in Jefferson street. The American and Greek flags are floating in the breeze at the door and three sentinels in uniform are stationed on the outside of the building. When the writer called at the latter place this forenoon the crowd was so large and there were so many wishing to be admitted that another sentinel was placed inside of the office and the door was kept locked. There are three men constantly on the job taking names. They are Staphanos Garavellos, secretary of the community, Vales Pappasliou and another.

The Greeks who went this morning encountered a little difficulty in the local mills relative to their pay. As soon as the news was received yesterday that a number of them would be in line for the start, escorted with interpreters, called at the offices of the mills and explained their situation and asked for their pay. It is said that in many cases they were refused, the officials claiming that they wanted three days' pay before they would supply them with their money. Some of them sold their wages to brokers, while others have left the matter in the hands of friends.

Mr. Noulas informed his people this morning that he would arrange things with the mill officials so that everybody in the event of another party going, shall receive his pay before he goes.

One of the largest meetings ever held among the Greeks took place last night in the church, when over 4000 people gathered in the temple to receive instructions as to what is being done. The large number of people who were addressed by their pastor, and Mr. Noulas as well as Dr. Papadoulas, who dwelt on the patriotic note. At the close of the meeting the crowd went wild and cheered the king, the country and the war. Later the large number of people who were listed at this morning went to their homes and got their things in shape for the voyage. Others went to the headquarters of the Holy regiment at 12-12 Jefferson street and there many donated to help the families of those who were going to the war, subscriptions being taken by Capt. Constantine Constantinidis. A big celebration is being prepared for the next party who will go and it is proposed to have a couple of bands accompany the soldiers to the station.

FUNERALS

PEAVET—The funeral of Mrs. Hattie L. Peavet took place yesterday from her home, 87 West Meadow road, and was largely attended. Rev. F. G. Alger officiated. There were many beautiful floral tributes which bore testimony to the esteem in which she was held. Among them were: Pillow inscribed "White and Mother," from husband and child; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Peavet; spray, R. A. French and family; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood; spray, Mrs. Hanscomb; spray, Robinson and Hazelton; spray, C. W. Fernald was in Lakeside cemetery, Wakefield. Undertaker Geo. M. Eastman in charge.

FAHEY—The funeral of the late Joseph W. Fahey took place this morning at 9.30 o'clock from his late home, 154 South street and was well attended. The cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church where at 10 o'clock a mass of requiem was sung by Rev. W. George Mullin. Among the many floral tributes was a standing cross on base from John P. Donnelly, John Cadogan, James E. Donnelly, Patrick Keenan and William J. Donnelly; spray of pinks, Mrs. Kate Fahey; spray of pinks, Mr. and Mrs. James Lannan; bouquet of cut flowers, Mrs. Grady Lannan and child; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Foley. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the final prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Mullin. Undertakers M. J. McDonough Sons had charge of the arrangements.

BLANCHARD—All that was morbid of the late Mrs. H. Blanchard, who was conducting a hospital in Pleasant street, Duane, was tenderly consigned to its last resting place this morning. The funeral took place from the home, 158 Pleasant street and was largely attended. The cortege wended its way to St. Louis' church, where at 9

YOUNG GREEKS READY TO FIGHT FOR NATIVE LAND

REPRESENTATIONS OF THE POWERS TO THE OTTOMAN GOVERNMENT MAY BE MADE TODAY

PARIS, Oct. 9.—The representations of the powers to the Ottoman government will probably be made by the ambassadors at Constantinople today with the feeble hope that the fire lighted by Montenegro may be extinguished. The press here generally foresees a spread of the war in the Balkan peninsula but is cheered by the promise of the powers not to permit any disturbance of the peace of Europe as a whole. The Figaro regards the visit of Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian foreign minister, to Berlin as of vast import as it is directed to the allaying of any suspicions existing between Russia and Austria. The mutual confidence of these nations existed on paper, says the Figaro, but this is not enough, and it continues: "A false step and a suspicion and all Europe would be inflamed." As a result of M. Sazonoff's visit it is believed that Russia will endeavor to bring influence to bear on Serbia not to anger Austria by the invasion of Novi Pazar.

A large mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. J. N. Jacques. The choir was under the direction of Mr. O. J. David, Miss Ida Monaghan presiding at the organ. The bearers were: Michael Judson, E. Bertrand, George Lavigne, Samuel J. Bertrand, Georges Lavigne, Samuel J. Bertrand. Burial took place in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, the body being laid at rest in a steel vault, one of the first of its kind to be used in the city. Among the many floral tributes were: Sheaf of wheat by the family; sprays, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Barre, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Barre, Mr. Bertrand and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Smith, Miss Clara McLean, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Thissell and Bertha Thissell; pillow, Dracut Grange. Among those attending the funeral were relatives and friends from Williamstown, Vt.; Randolph, Vt.; Williamette, Conn.; Nashua and Hudson, N. H. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker Amedeo Archambault.

CHARLES P. TAFT A WITNESS

He Tells About the Amount of Money Contributed to the Campaign

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, brother of the president, was the most important witness to be heard today before the senate campaign contributions investigating committee.

Rep. McKinley has testified that the Taft campaign cost about $265,000 and that the Taft brothers gave about $150,000 of that sum.

Other witnesses to appear today were Robert S. Lovett, former lieutenant of the late E. H. Harriman, Matthew Hale of Massachusetts, Dan R. Hanna of Ohio and former Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia.

Former Senator Scott, the first witness today, said:

"When we got low in funds in October, 1904, I asked Mr. Bliss if he could not go to 26 Broadway and get some money. He said: 'No,' that he had already secured a contribution from those people. I asked him how much they had given and he said $100,000."

Mr. Scott said he was in republican national headquarters in New York in October, 1904, when a telephone call came from the White House for Treasurer Bliss or Chairman Cortelyou. Neither was present, so he talked on the wire.

Scott did not identify the speaker at the White House end of the wire but referred to him as "the voice from the White House."

"That is this trouble I hear about Higgins," Senator Scott said he heard over the wire. "I hear he may be defeated." He told the "White House" that Mr. Higgins was in danger.

"Can't the state committee supply the necessary funds?" asked the "White House."

Mr. Scott said he told of the difficulties in getting money for the campaign and the response from the "White House" was: "I would rather lose the election in the country than be defeated in my own state."

"I said: 'There is no danger of your defeat,' said Scott. He added that the voice at the White House said: "Mr. Harriman is coming to see me and I'll see if we can arrange to raise the funds to help Higgins."

Mr. Scott said the committee would "have to judge" with whom he was in conversation. "Oh, I might as well answer your question," he added. "I thought I was talking with President Roosevelt."

When further questioned he said he could not remember whether the party at the White House had said "Mr. Harriman" or "the voice from the White House" or "I will have Mr. Harriman come here."

Scott said that when he suggested that Bliss go to 26 Broadway for money Bliss replied that President Roosevelt had notified him not to accept Standard Oil contributions.

"When all the trouble broke out about the life insurance companies and campaign contributions," said Scott, "I suggested to President Roosevelt when Mr. Perkins was indicted that we, who had benefited by his contributions, supply funds to replace those we would have to return for the use of which he was in trouble. I said I was willing to return the amount that had been sent into West Virginia. The president said 'No,' that if the money was to be returned it should be returned by the party as a whole."

Scott said he never had been informed of the return of a $100,000 to the Standard Oil Co. or any director of the executive committee of the Harriman system, testified.

"I knew of Mr. Harriman's visit to Washington in October, 1904," he said. "He told me of the national committee was in a hole and owed the state committee $200,000. He said, 'The president wants me to help them out and I've got to do it.' Some days later he came to my office and gave me some checks and cash. Mr. Bliss came, and got them. The sum was $250,000."

Judge Lovett could not remember the names of any of the contributors, but thought W. K. Vanderbilt was one.

"Mr. Harriman thought of making a contribution in 1908 but as it would have to be made public he believed it would do more harm than good under conditions existing then."

TWO WELCOME VISITORS

Entertained by Mayor O'Donnell Yesterday

Mayor O'Donnell yesterday entertained two welcome visitors at city hall, when Col. William L. Grayson and Dr. Martin Morris of Savannah, Ga. called to pay their respects to his honor. Dr. Morris is a former Lowell boy having been in the south for the past 20 years where he has made good, but he has always managed to make a bi-annual trip to the "old folks" at home, this time bringing with him Col. Grayson a real southern colonel, with that delightful dialect that is as much to the northern ear, the manners of a Chesterfield, and a gentleman as a scholar. Col. Grayson is at present clerk of the superior court and registrar of deeds at Savannah, the offices being combined, and of course, a red hot democrat, though like the Massachusetts families, a follower of "Old Champ" before the nominations were made. A more enthusiastic visitor than Col. Grayson never paid a tribute to poor old Lowell, and speaking of it to a reporter of The Sun he said: "I was most agreeably surprised at the neatness of your city and the neighboring towns. The roads for the most part appear to be well kept. I was much pleased with the large number of shade trees that line your streets, forming in many cases a beautiful natural canopy overhead, while the foliage as it now appears presents a charming spectacle. In the south we see little of the beauties of autumn foliage such as you have here. Then the people of Lowell have not the reserve expected of northerners but revealed one of those at home. Recently I enjoyed a trip along the north shore in an automobile and while I have been all over the country and along the Pacific coast I have never travelled over better roads nor by better kept or more prosperous looking residences, nor have I beheld more beautiful rugged scenery than that presented along your north shore."

Asked about his home city Col. Grayson's face beamed with enthusiasm and he said: "Come down to Savannah some time and see us. There is no 'spirit' of God there, he dwells in persons. We have a population of about 50,000, of whom 2,000 are whites. Of the colored population only about 700 are eligible to vote and hence the whites are always in control politically. Our government consists of a mayor and 12 aldermen elected at large. The board is then divided into committees of three for the running of the departments, the mayor being a member ex-officio of all committees. It is a commission form of government in a way but not such as yours. There is at present an agitation for a commission form similar to yours but we are going along so well under our present form and there is little or no likelihood of a change being made. Savannah is a centre for lumber, cotton and naval stores and having New York we out rival any city on the Atlantic coast in exports. We have comparatively little poverty in the city and the city assists in the maintenance of private charities such as orphan asylums and old people's homes that are conducted by private charity. We do not begin to have the demand made upon our charity department that you have in Lowell. Some people appear to have the impression that our street and sewer work is all done by the colored people but such is not the case, for the white people do the work."

Upon learning that Lowell has a company of the Ninth Mass. Infantry, Col. Grayson said: "The state of Massachusetts should be proud of the Ninth regiment. It is a fine body of men and a most competent regiment to poor old Lowell, and speaking of it to a reporter of The Sun he said: "I was most agreeably surprised at the neatness of your city and the neighboring towns. The roads for the most part appear to be well kept. I was much pleased with the large number of shade trees that line your streets, forming in many cases a beautiful natural canopy overhead, while the foliage as it now appears presents a charming spectacle. In the south we see little of the beauties of autumn foliage such as you have here. Then the people of Lowell have not the reserve expected of northerners but revealed one of those at home. Recently I enjoyed a trip along the north shore in an automobile and while I have been all over the country and along the Pacific coast I have never travelled over better roads nor by better kept or more prosperous looking residences, nor have I beheld more beautiful rugged scenery than that presented along your north shore."

Before returning to Savannah Col. Grayson and Dr. Morris will take in the world's series.

DIPHTHERIA IN TOWN OF CARLISLE

Dr. Simpson Found That Throats of Some of the Pupils in School Were Red

Carlisle has contributed diphtheria the culture proved positive. It is as well as scarlet fever to Lowell. In the Carlisle school, at the Chelmsford day, in search of scarlet fever germs, three are walking cases, which is some of the pupils were red and one little girl showed diphtheria symptoms. It is not to be understood, however, that the diphtheria cases have any connection with the scarlet fever cases. As a result of the fine mouth combing that was given the Carlisle school by Dr. Simpson, the diphtheria was discovered. The school authorities also discovered scarlet fever and that is what might be termed "killing two birds with one stone."

Dr. Simpson went to Carlisle again on Monday and satisfied himself that the child had diphtheria. The doctor with the scarlet fever cases. As a result of the fine mouth combing that was given the Carlisle school by Dr. Simpson, the diphtheria was discovered. The school authorities also discovered scarlet fever and that is what might be termed "killing two birds with one stone."

Upon being notified by Dr. Simpson, Agent Bates sent to the Industrial school for the Carlisle boy and upon the boy's arrival at city hall a culture was taken. That was yesterday, and

CONVENTION OF STATE FIREMEN STUDYING CHANCES OF TRADE

Mass. Association Opened Its First Session in Faneuil Hall Today

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—Fire fighters from all parts of Massachusetts assembled in Faneuil Hall this afternoon for the opening of the 23rd annual convention of the Massachusetts State Firemen's Association. The convention will continue for three days, distinguished firemen will deliver addresses on their experiences and the causes and prevention of fires. The Boston department will realistically demonstrate its methods of fire fighting and plans have been completed for a post entertainment of the visiting delegates.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the convention will be called to order by President D. E. Carey and addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Fitzgerald and the Commissioner of Public Safety. Fire Commissioner Cole and District Chief Fox followed.

An outline of the intended scope of the work of the Metropolitan fire department and the subject of Mrs. Cole's address and District Chief Fox will talk on "Causes and prevention of fires." Walter L. Wodger of Boston will discuss "Smoke, explosives and inflammable substances found in our cities."

A memorial address and silent prayer in behalf of departed comrades will feature the session of the convention this evening. A report of the legislative committee will be read and approved by the assembly.

Tomorrow will be largely devoted to a program of local interest to the delegates. At 10 o'clock in the morning they will assemble at the Commonwealth docks to witness a fire boat exhibition by the Boston department. It will consist of evolutions of the battleship of fire boats showing the practical efficiency of fire boat protection.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a drill exhibition by a squad of firemen under District Two's command at fire headquarters will be given. Thirty and 45-foot ladders will be raised and lines carried up onto the building. The high tower at headquarters will be scaled with ladders and ropes and escape with the help made from the tower to the fire escape. Demonstration of rescuing unconscious persons ever ladders will be made at a recesses effected by jumping into the life net. New technical features of apparatus will be demonstrated and an exhibition of the new water tower with its capacity and the capital of Great Britain given at Albany and Bristol streets, Bristol.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—In Mexico City the Panama canal bill is interpreted as having been aimed in part at the 70 per cent of the new water tower with its capacity and the capital of Great Britain given at Albany and Bristol streets, Bristol.

When the late Capt. James T. Eads, some 30 years ago to advocate the Tehuantepec ship railroad, he was never able to get the United States government or congress or American capital interested in this plan.

About 20 years after Capt. Eads began his agitation for a Tehuantepec ship railroad, Mexico, in alliance with capital from Great Britain, began the construction of this railroad, but Capt. Eads' idea of transporting ships across the isthmus was abandoned.

English capital accepted the demonstration that by means of passage across the isthmus, San Francisco was some 1200 miles nearer New York, Philadelphia or London than by way of the Panama railroad.

This railroad has been successful since operation began. The amount of tonnage transported over it increases yearly. The difference in distance by way of the Tehuantepec isthmus, compared with Panama, represents a great saving, and that, too, notwithstanding the expense by transferring commodities from vessels to the railroads.

If, therefore, American vessels engaged exclusively in domestic commerce can use the Panama canal without paying tolls, it might more than compensate for the difference of 1200 miles in favor of Tehuantepec. In Mexico City the impression is very strong that but for the Tehuantepec railroad the provision in the Panama canal bill favoring American vessels would not have been inserted.

Revenues of the Panama Canal

The latest estimate of some authorities on Panama on the income earning capital of the canal is totally different from an estimate made by a leading British engineer a few years ago. He was persuaded that the commerce through the canal would be so small, at least for a good many years, that the income from tolls would not justify the actual cost of operating the canal. Our own experts now say that the canal will more than pay from the start.

It is reported that there is not a large source in Great Britain or on the continent which does not now furnish persuasive evidence of what the commerce through the Panama canal will be. Even Japan, now fully active in studying commercial opportunities, is planning a new line of steamships.

Canada is to operate at least two and possibly more direct lines by way of the Panama canal to command some part of the commerce which South America will offer.

Between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 is now invested, or about to be invested, in railroads connecting the interior of South America with the Pacific coast, and almost all of this investment can be traced through the stimulating influence of the Panama canal.

So far as the United States is concerned, there seems to be only two further improvement operations underway. One is at Mobile and another is by New York capital in a great harbor near the Brazos river, in Texas. Only one very important railway proposition, that by Newman Erb, connecting Canada with the Gulf, can be traced to Panama canal influence.

Keen for Trade Chances

Aside from the money which China will export, provided she can borrow it, in the development of her natural resources, the world's great investment of capital will undoubtedly be made in South and Central America for at least a decade after the opening of the Panama canal.

Nowhere in the world, relatively speaking at least, is so large an amount of capital now being invested in improvements and railway construction as is the case in South America. Probably the aggregate at this time is not far from $350,000,000. There is authentic information to the effect that Brazil is now spending about $150,000,000 in the construction of new railway systems.

American bankers and American capital are now employing skilled agents in South America to determine when, how and where to establish branch American banking houses. Recently word has come from South America, telling of the appearance in various parts of South America representatives of various commercial organizations, chambers of commerce, are met with where business it is to report upon opportunities for the expansion of mutual trade between South America and European countries.

The bright-eyed Japanese are found in all parts of South America, keenly studying trade opportunities, and in all parts of South America representatives of various commercial organizations, chambers of commerce, are met with where business it is to report upon opportunities for the expansion of mutual trade between South America and European countries.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—When the school opened yesterday morning Leothe Temple, the 17-year-old son of Frederick L. Temple, who is an auditor in New York, was not present. The school board of the village took action last week in regard to the boy's refusal to announce his allegiance to the American flag, and as the boy refused to consider acting under his father's name, he was expelled. Mr. Temple said: "My son shall not announce his allegiance to the American flag until he is 21 years old and decides for himself. Why should my son or I pledge ourselves to this flag? We both were born in Canada, and I was a lieutenant in the 4th Canadian Artillery, when I swore allegiance to the British flag."

The board of education is equally divided in regard to the matter. One of the members of the board said last night:

"This Temple boy has caused us trouble before. About a year ago he publicly defied the flag, and he was asked to apologize, which he did. Now, we cannot have exceptions of this sort in the school, which, after all, is a government institution. If he is not an American he should go to a private school and pay for his tuition or go back to Canada or England. But if he made an exception in his case, it suggests that any anarchist might refuse to salute the flag. He can be reinstated if he reconsiders his decision; otherwise he is expelled."

FORMER GOVERNOR FOLK

Is Confident Wilson Will be Elected

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—"There is not a state in the Union," said former Gov. Joseph W. Folk, "that Wilson may not carry. There is not a state in the Union that either Roosevelt or Taft are capable of carrying. Wilson is sure of at least three-fourths of the states, and as the leader of a progressive movement, he will have the largest majority in the electoral college ever given a president."

"During the past two months I have been in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Michigan and Indiana, and have spoken to several hundred thousands of people. Wilson is overwhelmingly in the lead everywhere and each day he is growing stronger. His statement against Smith in New Jersey has helped immensely in his favor. The type of so-called democrats that passed as good in the days when the people were asleep, he demonstrates are unworthy as the captain of the new movement which is merely the spirit of a true democracy."

"In former years, before the great awakening, Taft would have been considered a good president, but he has utterly failed to keep step in the march against corruption. He is a man of the past, and his administration would be a disaster to the country."

"Discredited republicans are ready to go to the democratic party or going to Roosevelt. There is no need for a third party while the democratic party has a standard bearer such as Wilson and Marshall, and there is no objection from the democratic ranks anywhere."

"Roosevelt will, in my opinion, run second and will be far ahead of Taft. In fact, Roosevelt will, I believe, get two votes to Taft's one, not only in the west, but even in Ohio, the president's home state. Roosevelt will poll more votes than Taft, while Wilson will carry the state by a good margin."

"It does not take a prophet to foresee what this will mean. If Roosevelt carries more states than Taft, the two parties after the election will be the Roosevelt party and the democratic party. The republicans will go the way of the white and other organizations that have faded away during our political history."

"The chief interest in the election is not as to who will be elected president, for it is conceded by all well posted men that the election of Wilson is practically sure. The chief interest is whether Roosevelt will get more votes than Taft. This he will, in my opinion, do."

"In Missouri the democrats have a strong and progressive state ticket, and Wilson will carry the state by 75,000 to

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Edgar J. McHugh, and Miss Lottie M. Peterson were married in the parlor of the residence of St. Patrick's parish on Oct. 7, by Rev. Timothy J. McHugh. The bride was a gown of white messaline with an overdress of princess lace and carried a shower bouquet of white Killarney roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mollie J. Peterson, who wore a gown of white messaline with an overdress of princess lace and carried a shower bouquet of white Killarney roses. The best man was Mr. Fred M. Hagen, a brother of the bridegroom. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Catherine Craig, and Mrs. John P. Murphy. The bride and bridegroom left for their wedding journey on the 5:45 train for New York city where they will spend a few days before proceeding on their wedding tour. On their return they will reside at 101 Gates street and will be pleased to greet their friends after the 1st.

BABY KILLED

Its Mother Seriously Injured While Pulling Little Son Off Track Yesterday

MIDDLEBURY, Oct. 8.—Shortly before noon yesterday Ethel C. Bradbury, the 6 months old daughter of Francis R. Bradbury, was instantly killed, and her mother seriously hurt, when struck by a Bridgewater-bound car of the Bay State line within sight of their home in Everett street.

Mrs. Bradbury had just left her home carrying her infant daughter in one arm and holding her 4-year-old son Milton with the other, to take them out for a walk. They were going toward the car track, and the motor-man, A. L. Clifford, on seeing, slowed down the car. The boy ran directly in the path of the oncoming car. His mother pulled the boy out of harm's way, but could not save herself.

The mother was hurried to the Brockton hospital, suffering from a broken arm and bruises to the body, and is thought to have a fractured skull.

Three Good Pals

Breakfast time should be the "curtain raiser" of a happy day. But the day can't be a happy one with ill health. Coffee is often a disturbing factor.

It contains a drug—caffeine—that gets on the nerves of many a naturally happy-tempered man or woman, resulting in "crossness" and irritability.

But now comes

Instant Postum

which is absolutely free from any drug.

This new food-drink makes "good company" at breakfast or any other meal. Manufactured from choice Northern wheat and the juice of pure Southern sugarcane, it is prepared at table instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful, direct from the tin, in a cup of hot water and adding cream and sugar to taste. Everyone can drink it with happy results.

GROCERS SELL INSTANT POSTUM

FRANK BOSTOCK DEAD

Owner of Animal Shows
Died in London

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Frank C. Bostock, whose animal shows have been seen practically all over the world, died yesterday in London, according to a dispatch received here. In Boston he maintained an exhibition at the old Public Library building on Boylston street and in the old Cyclopaedia building on Tremont street. His shows were also seen at Nantasket and Revere beaches, and they were a feature of the midway at the Buffalo exposition. Thousands of persons went to them at Coney Island, also.

GREAT OBSERVANCE

Of Seventy-Fifth Anniversary of Foundation of Mount Holyoke College Continued Today

SOUTH HADLEY, Oct. 9.—Campus and chapel of Mount Holyoke college, which Mary Lyon founded 75 years ago, were scenes of splendor today. Noted men and women brought greetings from universities and colleges in many lands, honorary degrees were conferred and a royal Te Deum was sung.

The second day of the celebration of the 75th anniversary was fair and clear, and the bright tints of the autumn foliage blended brilliantly with the masses of decorative coloring on the long avenues and college green.

The formation of the academic procession was the first event of the day. Headed by the marshals and President Woolley, the procession formed at the library and passed along the campus to the Field memorial gateway, which was formally opened. The gateway was given to the college in memory of Florence Nash Field by her children.

After the opening of the gateway the intercollegiate commemorative exercises were held in an outdoor auditorium. Addresses were given by Presidents Hadley of Yale, M. Carey Thomas of Bryn Mawr, Ellen Fitzpatrick of Wellesley, James Taylor of Vassar and Abbott Lawrence Lowell of Harvard.

Then came the conferring of honorary degrees by President Woolley.

HUSBAND IN COURT

For Non-Support Said His Wife Left Him Because He Was Not Up to Date

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—In the Malden district court yesterday Willis Hunter of Everett, who was arraigned on a non-support charge, told the court that his wife did not leave him because he was not up to date. "She wants an up-to-date man, so I won't," remarked Hunter. "My wife don't think I'm good enough for her, so she won't live with me," he continued.

Mrs. Hunter told the court that she had received no support from her husband for many months and he had not spoken to her for more than two years. The defendant stated he made $12 per week and had worked for the same concern 27 years. He was found guilty and ordered to pay his wife $4 weekly till Feb. 15.

Hunter decided to appeal, and when he was ordered to furnish $100 surety, he was uncertain as to his course, so the case was put over.

40th Anniversary

The "Survivors" of the Big Boston Fire Department of 1872 are busily engaged in making arrangements for the observance of the fortieth anniversary of that event on Nov. 9 next. For that purpose an organization bearing the title already given has been established, and among the features which will mark the observance will be a banquet participated in by the survivors of the Boston fire department of that day, but by as many of the survivors of out-of-town departments as may desire to take part in the observance.

SCENE FROM "OVER NIGHT" AT THE OPERA HOUSE SATURDAY

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

These country-wide known characters of Bud Fisher's cartoons, "Mutt and Jeff" were wonderfully well represented in real life at the Opera House last night by Earl Redding and Danny McComick, in a delightful and extremely funny musical comedy, entitled "Mutt and Jeff."

What can be expected but good, wholesome fun when two such famous characters are played on the stage, and there is added the charm of good music, singing and dancing. Such is the case at the Opera House and the production will be given there again tonight. The piece is really extremely laughable and is well worth seeing. Everyone has seen the antics of these two principals of Bud Fisher's cartoons and no doubt the sight of them on the stage and acting out these funny situations will furnish an end of amusement.

The audience last night thoroughly enjoyed the play and many times gave unmistakable evidence of their appreciation. The chorus is very good with out exception, and the solos were deserving of commendation. Those who did not attend last evening will be given another opportunity of seeing Mutt and Jeff this evening at the Opera House, and they will not be disappointed for there is a good hearty laugh for every minute of the play.

WORLD SERIES GAMES

Every ball pitched, every hit made, every run scored and, in fact, every move of the world's series baseball

Tragedy After Ball Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—An incident in the demonstration of baseball technique, growing out of a good natured argument over the world's series, led to a painful tragedy in a downtown workshop last evening.

To illustrate the batting method of a favorite player, Frank Grohman, an 18-year-old metal worker, picked up a two and a half-foot bat with a wooden handle for a bat, and George Grohman, a fellow employee, pitched to him a bit of metal.

Grohman missed the ball, which pitched, and the bat, insecurely fastened, flew from the handle and hurtled through the air directly at Brown, the sharp point piercing his left side.

The young pitcher dropped and an ambulance surgeon who was called found him beyond his aid. He died two hours later in a hospital.

Grohman was arrested on a homicide charge.

James between the Giants and the Boston Americans will be displayed at the Opera House by the latest mechanical achievement of its kind, the "Perfect Scoreboard."

As a ball is pitched at the Polo grounds or at Boston, the telegraph instrument will click the fact to the operator of the perfect scoreboard and instantly it will work almost in unison with the players. For instance, if a batter makes a single, he will hardly be to first base before the play is recorded in lifelike manner on the machine.

Thousands of persons who could not get tickets to the world's series a year ago will find every play in the games of the perfect scoreboard. This device will be operated in both New York and Boston during the series this year, and the Opera House management has been most fortunate in securing one for this theatre.

That the fans of Lowell may enjoy this great baseball classic without the hardship or expense of traveling to New York or Boston, a special Western Union wire connects the stage of the Opera House with the ball grounds.

"OVER NIGHT"

William A. Brady, the producer of "Over Night," which is to be seen at the Opera House, Saturday, Oct. 12, has announced that the play will be given in New York.

Mr. Brady is a practical stage manager and personally supervised the rehearsals of all his companies. He was at one time an actor himself and nothing new delights him better than to jump in on one of his plays in any of his plays when occasion requires.

Finds Lost Son

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—A strange reunion of father and son, separated for 16 years, occurred on the rear platform of a Division street car when Philip Peters, a wealthy cattle ranch owner of Graham, S. D., boarded the car.

He found the conductor to be his long lost son, John H. Meyers. A score of passengers stared in astonishment when they saw the aged man, with tears streaming down his cheeks, throw his arms around his son's neck.

The Sunshine Society

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—The Massachusetts division of the International Sunshine Society, meeting in the vestry of the Park Street church yesterday, on the occasion of its annual convention, was honored with the presence of its founder and president-general, Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden of New York. She announced that the society, with a membership of more than 300,000, is the second largest women's organization in the world. All present repeated in unison the motto: "Have you a kindness shown? Pass it on."

During the evening session Nivon Waterman read original poems, Jean Clements recited, Mrs. Clara Kimball, the division president, delivered an address, and solos were rendered by Maurice Quinlan. The order of the day was an address by Mrs. Alden, who said that many fail because they lack courage and if they would learn to smile they would experience an exhilaration which would carry them through the most difficult tasks.

Public Bequests

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—The will of Warren F. Hall, a South Boston truckman, was allowed by Judge George in the Suffolk probate court yesterday after a brief hearing. Mr. Hall was a member of the Engineers, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company and was also well known in Masonic circles.

The public bequests in the will were: $1000 to the Masonic home; $1000 for a public drinking fountain in Flood square, South Boston, and $2000 to the Farm and Trade school. The will also contained bequests to personal friends.

On opening nights he always remains back of the scenes, and when a number of super and star people are required, he joins in with his own aggressive way. Mr. Brady returned from Europe a few months ago, where one of his plays, "Baby Mine," is now being played in London, Berlin and Paris.

One of the few American plays ever to have made a real success in the London capital, Mr. Brady is intending to make further productions in London, the next one of his attractions, slated for there being "Over Night."

As soon as the things he now has in hand are well under way on this side of the Atlantic, Brady will return to London to complete arrangements for his future productions in England.

SUNDAY CONCERT

Next Sunday afternoon and evening at the Opera House the big feature of the program will be the appearance of the M. T. I. Bachelor Girls in an entire new program. There will also be a big picture show of the latest and best pictures, which will be given in conjunction with the program to be offered by the popular young women.

There will be no advance from Sunday Sunday prices, admission being five and ten cents, with reserved seats at $2.00. Tickets for both performances are now on sale at the box office.

Academy of Music

What a lot of fun last night at the Academy of Music. The program of 11 acts was given away. Princess Suranna was given a great reception and was called before the curtain several times. The Toccata, a very funny musical act, and the half hour of solid pleasure, the ball returns of the world's champion, were being given at the matinee.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—A trust, estimated at $2,000,000, created by the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, for the benefit of the denomination, was declared void today by the Massachusetts supreme court. The court holds, however, that a charitable trust has been created and that new trustees may be appointed to administer it.

ANNUAL MEETING

Of the American Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions Being Held in Portland

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 9.—Reports from the field were presented at today's sessions of the annual meeting of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions by missionaries to China, Japan, India and Turkey. After a devotional service in the morning four missionaries from stations in China spoke on the general topic "The New China—Christianity or Atheism, Which?"

The speakers were Rev. Charles W. Young of Pekin; Rev. Charles W. Young of Shao and Rev. Paul Corbin of Tientsin. Then followed a service in memory of Miss Annie A. Gould and Miss Mary S. Merrill, missionaries of the American Board who were massacred at Peking, Pa.

"Japan is a great nation seeking for a religion," was discussed by Rev. William Curtis of Niagara and Rev. Edward Cobb of Kato. "In all Japan there is one Christian in every thousand of population, one Christian preaching place to every 25,000, and one evangelistic minister to every 125,000," Mr. Curtis said. "There are a great number of spiritual forces working together for the uplift of Japan," he continued, "namely, the growth and development of the peace movement, the influence of the religious press, the official recognition of Christianity in the three religious conferences and the cooperative work of the federated missions in Japan."

"Righteousness," said Mr. Cobb, "is the ideal of the new era in Japan and what Japan now needs is not moral ideas, but a moral dynamo—a power by which the people may realize these ideals. A life has not yet in Japan most favorable to Christianity."

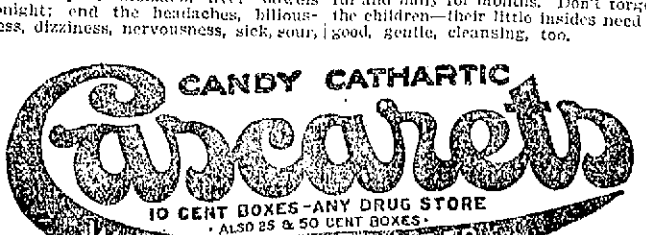

remains for the Christian representation in Japan and for Christian America to take it at the flood and win Japan for Christ. There is the situation, 50,000,000 unsatisfied; the decadent religions of old Japan powerless; Christianity alone able to redeem and only a handful of Christian workers."

HAD BRIEF FREEDOM

Prisoner Set Free Only to be Rearrested

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—On completing his sentence of eight months at Deer Island for fraud yesterday Richard H. Dunbar, alias Richard H. Doyle, alias Frederick W. Dunbar, was arrested by United States Deputy Marshal Rubi charged with forgery in Washington, D. C.

Dunbar, or Doyle as he is known, made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the island last month. After having disappeared for several days he was found half starved and half frozen in a corn field in the vicinity of the House of Correction.

The charge on which he was arrested yesterday is based on an indictment for the alleged forgery of the name of Emil A. Stibel on a check passed on the Central National bank of Washington on Dec. 24, 1904. The indictment was returned in 1907. When arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes he pleaded not guilty and was held in $1000 for a hearing on Friday next.

GOV. WILSON NOT FOR FREE TRADE

Candidate Wilson seems to have chosen free trade as his hobby. The abolition of the protective system, in his mind, is the great boon that will set everything right. Abolish protection, and there will be no more trouble with the high cost of living. Abolish protection, and the trusts and the problems connected with the trusts will vanish as mist before the rising sun. Abolish protection, and the sores of the wage-earner will be healed forthwith. Everything will be made right when we "set ourselves free."—Springfield Union.

In the above it would appear that the Springfield Union wilfully misrepresents the attitude of Governor Wilson upon the tariff. Mr. Wilson has stated his position so clearly that we do not see any excuse for misunderstanding him. He favors reduction downward and particularly on articles in which the present schedules afford a monopoly. This revision, says Governor Wilson—

"Should begin with the schedules which have been most obviously used to kill competition and to raise prices in the United States, arbitrarily and without regard to the prices pertaining elsewhere in the markets of the world; and it should, before it is finished or interrupted, be extended to every item in every schedule which affords any opportunity for monopoly, for special advantage to limited groups of beneficiaries, or for subsidized control of any kind in the markets or the enterprises of the country; until special favors of every sort shall have been absolutely withdrawn and every part of our laws of taxation shall have been transformed from a system of governmental patronage into a system of just and reasonable charges which shall fall where they will create the least burden. When we shall have done that, we can fix questions of revenue and of business adjustment in a new spirit and with clear minds. We shall then be partners with all the business men of the country, and a day of freer, more stable prosperity shall have dawned."

In another speech Governor Wilson said:

"All that is meant by the dire predictions of those who foretell disaster, if the democrats should be successful, is that the democrats will alter the tariff duties, will lower them, will put a great many articles on the free list, will set the process going which will certainly destroy the special privileges now being enjoyed by many classes of employers in this country."

We believe these quotations should remove all doubt, if any exists, as to Governor Wilson's attitude. He is not for free trade and it is equally wrong to say the democratic party is for free trade for the platform adopted specifically states the contrary.

In view of such statements by Governor Wilson, we cannot see on what ground any paper can say that he is for free trade. We know it is customary for republican papers to shout "free trade" whenever a proposition is made to reduce the tariff to a revenue basis. The republican press is so wedded to the trust and monopoly tariff that they seem to shudder at the thought of a change that would cut off the special privileges that enable large combines to plunder the people. Governor Wilson very plainly says "You cannot have free trade in the United States because the government is of necessity supported by the duties collected at the ports." The present protective system bars us from many of the markets of the world. We can have a lower tariff and a greater export trade that will insure an increase of business instead of the decrease predicted by republicans.

ROOSEVELT REPUDIATES HIS OWN WORDS

Roosevelt stock is falling fast. Since the exposure of his 1904 transactions which at that time he denied, nobody who has followed his tergiversations can believe anything he says.

A few days before the election in 1904 Roosevelt issued the following statement as a formal reply to charges made by Judge Parker—

"Mr. Parker's accusations against me and Mr. Cortelyou are monstrous. If true, they would brand us both forever with infamy, and inasmuch as they are false heavy must be the condemnation of the men making them."

The recent investigations make it appear that Judge Parker's charges are true. They were made twelve days before the election and Roosevelt almost on the eve of the election came out with the quoted reply. Judge Parker remarked that it was "a strangely belated reply." "He has waited," said the judge, "till the closing hours of the campaign to make easier the pretense of an answer; but it is not an answer. It is a confession with a plea of avoidance addressed to a kindly and generous public."

Roosevelt has never made a confession, never admitted an error and now, eight years later, when the light is turned on it shows that, as in many other cases, he had his way out of the difficulty. Colonel Roosevelt is not willing to accept the alternative of being "forever branded with infamy."

One of Roosevelt's campaign managers in that campaign has recently admitted that 72 1/2 per cent. of the contributions to the Roosevelt campaign came from the trusts and corporations. Hence it can be easily understood why Roosevelt was suddenly changed from a trust buster to a trust booster.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

Judge Beright yesterday fined a man for cruelty to a horse. It seems that these fines are not as frequent as they should be because the offenders are not brought to court. We remember notable instances in which drivers lambasted horses unmercifully and most cruelly. We recall one case a few weeks ago. Two men drove a horse drawing a large telegraph pole up Wamsit street hill. The horse was willing; but about the middle of the hill it became completely exhausted. The men found themselves in a predicament for they could neither turn the horse around nor to either side owing to the length of the pole. After letting the horse rest a while the driver whipped it unmercifully; but the animal was simply unable to pull the load, which was enough for two good horses on a steep hill.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Fire prevention day is being observed in New York state today and most other states require to cultivate the prevention of fires as much as does New York. The fire bond makes heavy ravages in most states and it is well to have children trained in fire drills and preventive measures as a means of lessening the number of destructive fires, many of which start from a match carelessly used by a child, from a brush fire, an overheated flue, the spark from a chimney, or some other familiar cause.

So far as written history knoweth, Gamaliel Bradford introduced in Massachusetts the practice of paying five cents apiece for signatures to petitions. He had plenty of money to do it. So have the bull moose, apparently, and we are beginning to understand where it comes from.—Worcester Post.

The practice of paying for signatures to a petition is a legitimate transaction as compared with that introduced by the republican party of paying for votes at prices regulated by the urgency of the case.

The Portuguese of New Bedford are celebrating the anniversary of the Portuguese republic by parades and other public demonstrations. If the Portuguese republic is to live and flourish, it will not be by adhering to the principles of the founders or those of the I. W. W., so popular with the Portuguese in this country.

It is a very absurd law that puts out President Taft from getting his election upon the ballot in California but Mr. Taft should not worry as it means the same in the end anyhow.

Seen and Heard

When a girl tells a man she loves him, he takes it for granted ever afterward. When a man tells a girl he loves her, she expects him to keep on saying it permanently every fifteen minutes.

When a woman is willing to admit to herself that she is plump, other people call her fat.

The man who doesn't say anything when his pencil drops to the floor and breaks the point may be thinking unutterable things.

Even if one man had all the money in the world, before long some woman would have a lot of it.

It is a great thing to be so busy that you don't have time to think how miserable you really are.

Poets have written a good deal about the entrancing beauty of the early dawn, but you never hear the milkman say anything about it.

People continue to complain about the high cost of living, and yet insist that they must have everything they want.

for the good or evil side. Some great cause, God's new Messiah, offering each the bloom or blight, Parts the curtains upon the left hand, And the sheep upon the right, And the chosen ones by forever twist That darkness and that light.

Careless seems the great Avenger; his- tory's pages but record One dumb struggle in the darkness 'twixt old systems and the Word: Truth forever on the scaffold, wrong forever on the throne— Yet that scaffold sways the future, and behind the dim unknown Standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch above his own.

Then to side with truth is noble when we share her wretched crust, For her cause bring fame and profit, and the preparation to be just. Then it is the brave man chooses, while the coward stands aside, Doubting in his abject spirit, till his lord is crushed. And the multitude make virtue of the faith they had denied.

For humanity swears onward, where today the martyr stands On the narrow crooked bridge of the silver in his hands; Far in front the cross stands ready, and the crackling fagots burn. While the hooting mob of yesterday in silent awe returns To glean up the scattered ashes into history's golden urn.

Now precious teach new duties; time makes ancient good unprofit; They must upward still, and onward, who would keep abreast with truth.

THE LAWRENCE PARADERS

To Pass Under Arch in Saturday's Game

LAWRENCE, Oct. 8.—There is to be no half-way policy in the conduct of the citizens' patriotic demonstration Saturday.

Not only are the stars and stripes to be the only emblem carried, but the committee yesterday afternoon held a special meeting and decided to have an arch erected over Essex street, near the corner of Franklin street, upon which the purpose of the parade shall be set forth in no uncertain terms.

All paraders are to pass beneath this arch, and in so doing they are to pledge all allegiance to the American flag and as well renounce the acts of violence and the propaganda of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Contributions to the parade fund are beginning to come in, a check for $500 from Aaron Ordway of New York city, a former resident, who still has really holdings here, being one of the early ones received. Figures at hand yesterday indicated that upwards of 25,000 men, women and children will be in line, including 5000 Italians, who in participating will waive their right to carry the flag of their native land, which they so earnestly sought Monday night.

The citizens' committee has asked that all places of business be closed during the parade Saturday morning. Vincent St. John, national secretary of the I. W. W., telegraphed Mayor Scanlon from Chicago, warning him that the members of the citizens' committee will be held personally responsible for any violence that may come to the I. W. W. leaders.

"If necessary, we will make grass grow in the streets of Lawrence," the message ended.

The arrest having a bearing upon the situation was made yesterday, a Greek named John Pappas being one of two who are alleged to have attacked a man wearing a flag. Two policemen in citizens clothes were close at hand and caught Pappas.

A BREACH OF PROMISE

Boston Woman Sues Man for $12,000

BOSTON, October 8.—In a suit for breach of promise asking $12,000 in the Suffolk court filed yesterday by Rebecca Siegel, a comely Russian widow of 45, against Abraham I. Greenberg, a North End business man of 60, she unfolds a story of love at first sight and breach of ancient Jewish law.

Last May the defendant mourned his wife according to Jewish custom eight days, the rule prescribed being that Mr. Greenberg should not marry inside of 20 days following the death of his wife.

After five days, however, Mr. Greenberg is alleged to have yielded to the lures of a matchmaker, who aroused his interest in the pretty widow so that she avers he fell desperately in love with her the moment he saw her. She alleges that he could not wait for the customary 30 days and imported her to marry him and to reside secretly at her house, she says she consented, but then, she says the defendant had a complete change of heart.

Mrs. Siegel has been in this country four years and both parties to the suit have grown-up children living here. Harry E. Burroughs, the newsboy lawyer, is her attorney. He refused to discuss the case yesterday.

GRAND LODGE A.O.U.W.

Held Special Session in Boston Yesterday

A special meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen was held yesterday in Ford hall in Boston and was one of the most enthusiastic meetings of its kind ever held.

A large amount of business was to be transacted, most of which had to be indefinitely postponed. The principal move was to raise the assessment of members, and this measure received a practical and unquestionable defeat.

The special session was called to order at 10.45 p. m. by Grand Master Workman John A. Clark; 211 lodges were represented; Massachusetts, 131; New Hampshire, 19; Vermont, 1. Number of representatives present, 308; number of life members and Grand lodge officers, 18; total voting strength, 326.

P. M. W. W. B. Libby of Roslindale, the leader for the committee of ten, offered a motion early in the meeting to allow visiting brothers seats in the gallery, but the motion was declared out of order.

The committee of 25 selected at the last Grand Lodge session to bring in a table of rates and report at a special session to be held in October, made their report which they claimed to be unanimous, but P. M. W. A. B. Pierce of Natick lodge, a member of that committee, reported that he was not in favor of the table of rates as reported and he made a stirring appeal to the members not to accept the committee's recommendations at this time. W. B. Libby of Fairview lodge, Roslindale, took the floor and proceeded to discuss the report of the committee of 25, section by section. He rebuked the Grand Lodge officers for keeping the members in ignorance of the passage of the so-called Mobile bill. The convention decided by a vote of 202 to 100 to indefinitely postpone any action in regard to a change in rates.

Enthusiasm was the keynote of this convention and every speaker was given the closest attention and as they concluded their remarks were applauded. Past Grand Libby was the principal leader against the proposed new rates. There was intense crusading and canvassing among the delegates to ascertain their lodges stood on the vital questions. From all over the state came the cry "Amend or repeal the Mobile bill!" which would ruin any fraternal beneficiary organization if the requirements are lived up to. Every lodge in Massachusetts will interview all candidates to the legislature and find out their attitude in order to get the support of the fraternal societies they will be called upon to pledge themselves to vote for the repeal of this pernicious and iniquitous bill which Gov. Fox allowed to become a law without his signature.

Lowell lodge of the order also was represented at the grand lodge session by P. M. W. Frederick G. Humphrey, Leon Wiggin, William Tappin and Oren E. Osmond, who were active on the floor of the convention and helped to create the sentiment to indefinitely postpone all the business on the call.

MOCK TRIAL WAS HELD

By Young Men's Club of St. Anne's Church

The young men's club of St. Anne's church held a mock trial last night which furnished no end of amusement for those who were present.

The case which was tried grew out of the alleged theft of a bench from the Sunday school room of St. Anne's parish. J. H. Brooks as judge, presided over these solemn court proceedings, while Newell Harris and Alben Morse were the "prisoners." "Sheriff" John Hopkins with a full uniform on, was the policeman who made the arrest of the criminals.

All the usual court routine was gone through and the affair was a great success in every way. The counsels were, for the court, Frederick Kleski and Present Grover for the defendants, and they took off their parts very well with unique "make-ups" of blue ink.

The jury brought in the inevitable finding of "guilty." Fines for contempt of court were frequent and constant and dice throws were employed as a means of preserving order. The judge imposed a sentence of hanging on the two prisoners.

a meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thomas L. Walsh, 104 Eleventh street. A number from the Tewksbury church were present, and a very pleasing program was given. Mrs. E. M. Lake of Lawrence, secretary of the Merrimack Valley association, spoke on the need of increased activities in the work, and Mrs. Fannie E. Trull gave an interesting account of the Northfield conference work. Mrs. W. H. Popin contributed a hymn in her usual pleasing manner. A vote of thanks was extended the program committee, Mrs. S. W. Cummings and Mrs. R. L. Stocks, for the publication of the year's program.

Bridge Badly Damaged

NEWBURYPORT, Oct. 8.—Plum Island bridge, connecting the island with this city and Newbury, was badly damaged by fire yesterday. The central part of the structure will have to be entirely rebuilt. The fire started it is thought, from an electric wire.

Chemical engineers from the Central fire station of this city, as well as a number of men in the employ of the railroad company, were sent down to fight the flames, and their arrival alone saved the structure from destruction.

PASSENGERS INJURED POLICE COURT CASES

At the South Station in Boston

Considerable Number of Offenders Sent Away

BOSTON, Oct. 8.—About a dozen passengers were injured at the South station yesterday when a train from Braintree crashed into the rear end of a Mattapan train which had just unloaded its passengers. The rear car of the Mattapan train was knocked on top of the locomotive of the Braintree local and the platforms of the three rear cars of the Mattapan train were smashed.

The Braintree train, due at 8:40 a. m. on track 27, took a wrong switch and entered rapidly on track 25. The engineer said that he obeyed signals and the switch failed to work. About 250 passengers in the Braintree train, nearly all standing or moving towards the doors, were thrown to the floor. One young woman was hurled through one door across two platforms and into another car, falling with a scream. One arm was broken.

Few, if any, passengers were seriously hurt. Among those known to have been injured were Richard Hussey of West Quincy; Miss Alice O'Neill of Rogers street, West Quincy; Miss Mary Chisholm and Miss Sadie Chisholm of East Milton, and Dr. Trainor. All injured were treated at the station and sent home in automobiles.

JOHN EDWARDS

The Noted Bank Thief and Well-Known Inventor May Be Set Free For Saving Life of Overseer

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—John Edwards, the noted bank thief and burglar-proof time-lock inventor, is likely to be set free on parole for saving the life of Overseer Talbot in the Eastern penitentiary Monday. Talbot had been attacked with a knife by Lee Atwood, a negro convict. Edwards seized Atwood and was wounded in the struggle, while the overseer escaped and summoned help.

Edwards broke his leg several years ago in escaping temporarily from the penitentiary. Lately he has been a trusty. He has a score of patents to his credit, among them a device that makes it impossible, it is said, to pick a bank lock.

Wife of Lieutenant Becker Interested Spectator at Trial

MRS. CHARLES BECKER.
© 1912 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Mrs. Charles Becker, wife of the police lieutenant on trial for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, is an interested spectator in court each day. There is nothing of the tearful clinging time about Helen Becker. A pretty woman, charmingly feminine in outward bearing, there is an intense reserve force of hand behind her easily discernible. She is a woman who has been a schoolteacher, and the so reluctantly because the woman so requested.

Allowed to Leave City
Audie Doyle was found in an intoxicated condition in an alleyway off Central street yesterday by Patrolman Lane. The woman said she belonged in Connecticut and came to this city during the recent strike and admitted that she had been arrested three times during that short period. She pleaded to be given a chance to go to her home, and with that understanding the court gave her a suspended sentence of three months in jail and placed her in the custody of the probation officer for six months.

Other Offenders
John Benfield was fined $5, three first offenders were fined $2 each, and four simple drunks were released before the opening of court.

Stole a Bottle of Milk
Moses Gardner, who claims Providence, R. I., as his home, entered a plea of guilty to a complaint charging him with stealing a quart bottle of milk, the milk and bottle being of the value of nine cents, the property of some unknown person. While passing through East Merrimack street about 2:30 o'clock this morning, Patrolman William Wilson saw Gardner take a quart bottle of milk out of a doorway and ordered that the man under arrest. The court imposed a fine of $5.

Lynn Shoe Factories
LYNN, Oct. 8.—Present labor conditions in Lynn have cost the city two more of its shoe factories, according to announcements made yesterday.

Seymour & Jackson, one of the oldest shoe firms in the city, closed its doors, throwing some 350 employees out of work. It is thought that the company intends to move to Philadelphia and join the Mrs. A. R. King Corporation, with which it has been closely allied.

The R. & G. shoe factory on Broad street will in a short time remove its factory to Newburyport. This move has been expected for some time, as George Gregory, head of the firm, stated some weeks ago that the recent labor troubles in Lynn, coupled with the high cost of material, made it imperative that they seek another location.

Given $2756 Verdict
Henry S. Townsend of Malden was awarded a verdict in the superior civil court, East Cambridge, before Judge Hirschbach, of $2756.26, against Chas. A. Barnham, Jr., et al., stock brokers, who did business under the name of Barnham, Barnett & Co. Townsend alleged that he bought certain stock through the company and never recovered the stock or the money.

G. A. R. MEMBERS

Denounce Attitude of the I. W. W. Toward the Flag and American Institutions

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Veterans of the rebellion condemned the attitude of the I. W. W. toward Old Glory and American institutions in no mistakable terms at the forty-fourth anniversary camp fire of Benjamin Stone Post 65, G. A. R., at the quarters of the organization, Park street, Dorchester, last night. The affair was attended by several hundred.

The address of George A. Hoxley, department commander of Massachusetts, in defense of the flag and in denunciation of those who have showed disrespect for it was enthusiastically applauded.

"In this old commonwealth there are many far from what an American citizen should be," declared Commander Hoxley. "For example, we have had in Lawrence and other cities an illustration of that class of men who have neither respect for the government nor its institutions. They deride the home, church, God and humanity."

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

Royal Baking Powder exceeds others in leavening power, in purity and wholesomeness, and is used generally in families, exclusively in the most celebrated hotels and restaurants, by the United States Army and Navy, and wherever the best and finest food is required. Teachers of cooking schools and lecturers upon culinary matters use and recommend the Royal.

Royal is the only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It is admittedly the best and most healthful baking powder made.

When you know what is best, please ask for it.

MARKET DEPRESSED

TALK OF BALKAN TROUBLE CAUSES TEMPORARY HALT IN TRADING

Closing Active and Strong With Slight Decreases Over Yesterday's "Fluctuating"—Covering Of Shorts the Cause of Slight Activity

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The heaviness of the foreign markets resulting from the situation in eastern Europe caused a weak opening to the stock market today. Can. Pac. declined over two points at the outset with ten points losses in N. E. and Great Northern. Selling of U. S. and several other active issues. The entire list tended downwards on heavy trading.

A slight rally followed the opening decline but the recovery failed to hold because of renewed pressure against Canadian Pacific and Ammanaham.

Developments in the Balkans combined with renewed offerings served to depress stocks to the verge of weakness today. That Europe did not continue its liquidation here was strongly intimated in the decidedly low level of our securities in London.

Here heaviness was most marked in Steel, U. P., the Builders and other leaders, including Amalgams of, which decline was moderate, however, and

[illegible]

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—A proposed new common stock issue of 106,687 shares and a bond issue not exceeding $7,500,000 were approved by the stockholders of the Boston & Maine railroad at the annual meeting here today. The new stock is to provide for the payment of money borrowed to buy stock of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester, Maine Central, Boston & Lowell, and Concord & Montreal roads, and for other purposes.

The bond issue is for the purchase of new equipment and for abolishing grade crossings, funding floating debt and paying and refunding $311,000 Worcester, Nashua & Rochester bonds.

Stockholders of the Boston & Providence Railroad corporation, a lessee of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road, approved the electrification of the road, a measure which the legislature and took steps to provide for the carrying out of its provisions. The issuance of first mortgage 4 per cent 75 year sinking fund bonds in a sum not exceeding $8,000,000 was authorized, the money to be used for electrification and four-tracking the road.

If all plans mature, the forthcoming silver jubilee of the Fr. Matthew T. A. society of North Billerica, in November, will be the grandest affair of its kind yet held by the society. The committee on arrangements met last evening in the clubhouse and there was a splendid attendance, 19 out of 22 members responding, an indication of the enthusiasm prevalent in the organization for the success of the undertaking. The tentative plans agreed upon promise a celebration on a more ambitious scale than heretofore attempted. It is proposed to invite all the charter members of the society, no matter how far removed they may be at present from the town. The members of the first ladies' auxiliary will be honored with special invitations, while other chapters, informally discussed but not definitely agreed upon are of such a nature as to make it a notable affair. The older members, the men who have been associated with the society for years back, have taken hold of the affair with a vim, and prominent members said today that it will mark an epoch in the history of the Catholic societies in this section.

FOREST HILL, the Magnificent Estate of John D. Rockefeller

Estate of John D. Rockefeller

A LARGE proportion of the reading public has been treated to something of a surprise in connection with the newspaper accounts of disturbances at the John D. Rockefeller estate at Pocantico Hills, near Tarrytown, N. Y. The surprise came not so much from the rather sensational disturbances at the New York estate, with its incidental rumors of Black Hand plots, as from the announcement that the richest man in the world, pending the unsettled conditions at his eastern country seat, "remains in seclusion at his magnificent estate at Cleveland."

Outside of northern Ohio there was, figuratively speaking, a general rubbing of eyes on the part of the people who take more or less interest in the doings of the Standard Oil millionaire. They had never heard, most of them, of this "magnificent estate at Cleveland." To be sure, they were aware that John D. Rockefeller, of the Rockefeller clan, had come from the metropolis of the Buckeye State—that is, Cleveland was the base of operations from which he reached out for new worlds to conquer—but it was the general impression of most of these casual onlookers at current events that our wealthiest citizen had only a more or less commonplace city home in Cleveland.

That impression was all very well as far as it went. John D. Rockefeller has a "town house" in Cleveland just as he has in New York city, although he occupies the former much more seldom than he does the latter—sometimes no more than one day in a year. But the Oil King has a second home at Cleveland and it is this remarkable, though comparatively little known habitation, which has been thrust into the limelight by the suddenly perturbed conditions at Pocantico Hills. Furthermore, this unexpected Cleveland estate is pre-eminently the favorite residence of Mrs. Rockefeller and Mr. Rockefeller's preference for it is almost as strong as is that of his wife. "Forest Hill," this estate is named, and the title is perhaps doubly appropriate, since Cleveland has long been known as the Forest City. "Forest Hill" is unique among American residential properties. Nowhere else in the length and breadth of our land can you find an estate of like magnitude set down in the midst of a populous and rapidly growing city. Why this Rockefeller "homestead"—the richest man has always regarded it in that light—would, if broken up into city lots, be worth several million dollars, taking no account at all of the present improvements. Only a man with the limitless money resources of the long-time head of the Standard Oil would be able to indulge a tad for a country place within reach of every city convenience, yet affording such isolation that its occupants need never hear the whirr of the trolley cars, the honk of the motors and the thousand and one noises incident to urban existence.

But it is not for the sake of city conveniences in rural surroundings that John D. Rockefeller maintains this, perhaps the most valuable of all his residences. Rather is it for the sake of old associations and the fact that it enables him to enjoy a summer and autumn climate—swept by Lake Erie breezes—that is much to his liking. And, of course, "Forest Hill" was not a city oasis when Rockefeller acquired it. Then it was suburban if not actually countrified. Cleveland, extending eastward with an all but mushroom growth, reached out to and has now all but surrounded Forest Hill with paved and thickly populated streets. Yet, thanks to nature's barriers rather than to human guards to obtain at this retreat a degree of rest and seclusion that would scarcely be considered possible when we take into consideration the fact that the front gate of the estate opens upon the Euclid avenue—long renowned as a beautiful residential thoroughfare, but in this age of the automobile known to fame as one of the busiest motor highways in America.

As a visitor walks or drives through the Forest Hill estate he is impressed over and over again with the appropriateness of the name. Nowhere in the United States can there be found more beautiful woodlands. To be sure, it is nature with her hair combed, to use a familiar term. The trees display no dead or broken limbs and there is an absence of underbrush, so that the pedestrian may walk in peace and comfort in any section of the woods, but, on the other hand, nature has been, in so far as possible, left to her own resources. There are thickets that suggest the primeval forest and shadowy ravines, with tumbling streams that savor of the wilderness. All this is in accord with the definite policy of John D. Rockefeller. Nature has been assigned wherever possible, but never seriously interfered with. The Forest Hill estate is an oblong tract, somewhat triangular in form. The estate proper comprises 460 acres and the adjoining "farm" adds 200 acres to the total. The property, in its greatest dimension, has a length of nearly two miles and more than two-thirds of the estate is heavily wooded and so rolling in character as to provide those deeply cut ravines that add so much to the picturesque quality of the place. The estate is well fenced and there is a lodge at the main gate where a witty Irishman who has been in the service of Mr. Rockefeller for more than a score of years scrutinizes the credentials of every visitor, but there is little trespassing and there is no obtrusive cordon or armed guards such as are conspicuous at the New York estate, where John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is master in the absence of his father.

As might be expected, the roads at Forest Hill are a joy forever. There is an aggregate of more than seven miles of roads on the estate—mostly stone ballast with gravel dressing—and there is nothing abroad to surpass them for the comparatively light traffic for which they are designed. But most of the Forest Hill roads are narrow and for this and other reasons the Standard Oil magnate will not permit automobiles other than his own to enter his grounds except on special occasions and by special permission. John D. Rockefeller is one of our rich men who has succumbed completely to the automobile hobby. He owns several cars of various types; has provided a neat and simple but commodious garage at Forest Hill; and has accorded motoring a place second only to golf as his pet pastime; but for all that he will not risk joy riding on his Cleveland estate and indeed, when he makes use of a motor himself he is more than likely to instruct the driver to leave and enter the grounds by the rear gate, thus avoiding the network of private roads with their many sharp curves.

Speaking of Mr. Rockefeller's golfing propensities it must be noted that a nine-hole golf course is a feature of the Forest Hill estate. And such a course as it is. The richest man probably plays more golf at his Cleveland estate than at any other place—not excepting his annual winter sojourn at Augusta, Ga., and so the links must be kept in perfect condition. To make them absolutely so a small fortune was spent on this golf course only this past spring. At each tee, hundreds of dollars have been expended in installing a system of drainage that has yielded a hard, firm turf that is a delight to every golfer who has opportunity to play over the course—and John D. Rockefeller is rather generous in the distribution of the coveted pasteboards that enable his friends to make use of this model playground. Near the golf links, a reminder of by-gone days, is a section of the half-mile private race track which was constructed by Mr. Rockefeller in his younger days when he had a penchant for trotting horses. In this same part of the grounds, too, may be seen a row of trees, planted by John D., Jr., entirely in accordance with his own ideas, when he was a very small boy.

At the highest part of the Forest Hill estate there is a private lake that covers seven acres and adds greatly to the attractiveness of the place. A white boathouse shelters among other craft a wonderful diminutive motor boat. John D. Rockefeller had constructed for his favorite grandson and which that proud youngster can operate unaided. On the shore of the lake is a tower and windmill—retained now only for the sake of appearances, but thereby hangs a tale suggestive of the proverbial shrewdness and thrift of the head of the Rockefeller clan. As our readers doubtless know it is the especial weakness of the average man who soquires a country seat or a vacation home to install a model private water power and lighting plant. But not so Mr. Rockefeller. He had these things in days gone by when he virtually had to have them, so to speak, but now that city utilities have been brought within his reach he has had recourse to the city water supply and the commercial current of the city; is used for the electric lamps which illuminate the Forest Hill residence and grounds.

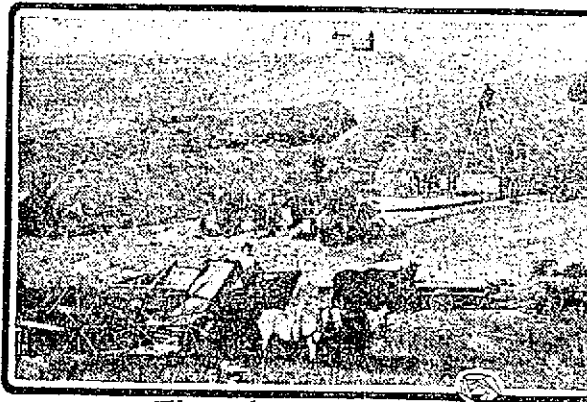

The residence, by the way, is somewhat overshadowed by the magnitude and beauty of the grounds. Architecturally the mansion is not nearly so impressive as that at the Pocantico Hills estate, but then Mr. Rockefeller did not build it. The rambling structure had been used as a sanitarium before the Oil King acquired the place, which may account for the comment of some critics that it looks like a hotel, and he merely continued the existing building, making such alterations as he found necessary from time to time. For all that the house is a thoroughly comfortable one and only recently Mr. Rockefeller, possibly in confession of his advancing age, had constructed an extensive sun parlor over the entire countryside and Lake Erie beyond. This new sun parlor will make the Forest Hill mansion a congenial residence until late in the fall or early in the winter. Ordinarily the Rockefeller household has arrived at Forest Hill in May or June and remained until September or October, but this year, as above mentioned, the richest men plans to continue his stay much later than usual.

Extensive improvements have also been carried on lately at Mrs. Rockefeller's favorite nook—the Lily pool. This is a truly idyllic spot, in a soothing sylvan setting and here the mistress of Forest Hill loves to come and sit by the hour on a rustic seat so placed as to command a view of the pond and the miniature waterfall in the tiny stream which discharges into it. That no expense is spared in accomplishing things at Forest Hill is attested by one detail of this Lily pool. Pipes have been laid connecting the pond with the steam heating plant on the estate and thus the waters of the pond are warmed to a temperature which permits the cultivation of the Egyptian sacred lily and other rare aquatic plants.

There is a five-acre vegetable garden and a half-acre flower garden at Forest Hill, and these are supplemented as sources of supply for the Rockefeller household by the "farm" which is all that its name implies and which in its relationship to the remainder of the estate is a wheel within a wheel. Fancy chickens are something of a fad with Mr. Rockefeller and more than a thousand head are to be seen in the poultry yard at the farm. Eleven blooded cows supply the domestic establishment with one hundred quarts of milk a day and greenhouses of the latest approved pattern enable the growing fruit and vegetables out of season. More than one hundred men are employed on the farm and estate at Forest Hill under the direction of a general superintendent who is a far busier man than John D. Rockefeller himself.

Harvesting the Bumper Wheat Crop of the Northwest

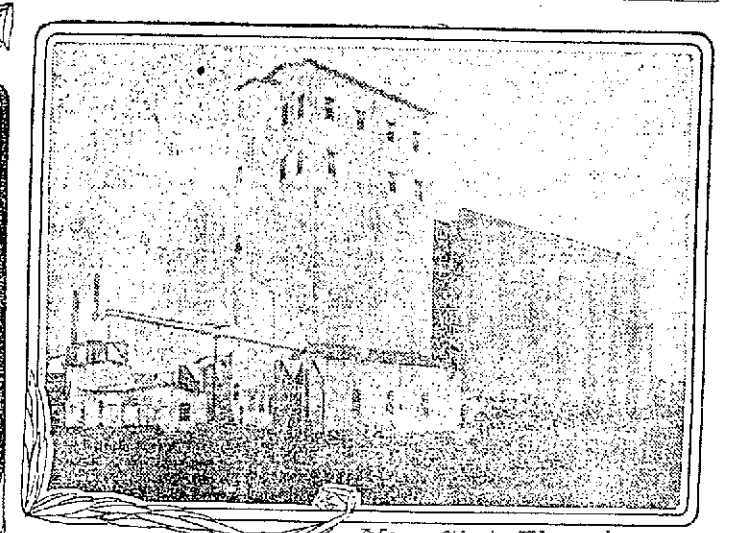

Threshing

One of the Largest Flour
Mills in the World

New Style Elevators
Concrete Tanks Reinforced by Steel

SIXTY thousand men are wanted in the wheat fields of the Northwest. This is the cry that has just gone up and with it went demands for thousands and thousands of bales of twine, for railroads to move cars so that tracks might be unobstructed and the great wheat trains rushed to their destination so that the bumper crop of the Dakotas and Minnesota may be cared for. Never has there been such a year as this. The small and big farms have put forth grain that runs more to the acre and of better quality than in years and this will effect the whole country. Wall street, bankers, transportation companies, as well as the growers are concerned in the harvest outcome and a sixty-acre field of oats or wheat that yields over eighty bushels to the acre is something in which more persons than the farmer himself are concerned. It also means work, work, work for a short time and with rapidly for many men, and hence state employment agencies, as well as labor bureaus issued frantic calls for aid. Then the cry for twine, more twine went up, from counties that only had about a third enough for the heavy crops. More than this conditions this year have been wonderfully favorable. The grain is of the first quality, and hard. Hail and wind have done little damage. Even Montana, a dry, farming state, had a big crop and all through the Northwest, East of the Rockies, telegrams were sent to the railroads asking for help in getting men to work, for free transportation and every facility for shipping. And the West responded. Prosperity on the farm touches many lives and appeals to many hearts. Think of walking through acres and acres of grain and hay that come over one's head! It is a bumper crop this year, and those who have been watching in terror for the dread black rust are rejoicing that prosperity reigns. In fact never before has there been such calls for men, skilled and unskilled to labor in the field, and the records of the Northwest have been broken. Last year the Dakotas suffered poor crops and hence men hesitated to trek to the fields this year, but this same territory has made good as never before and all the men from every direction that Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Chicago could send found work and plenty of it. For fear that there might be a car shortage for this bumper crop the railroads worked night and day. Construction work was stopped in various places, roads were cleared and coal dealers were asked to ship their product before the rails were needed for the grain.

For weeks men poured into the Dakotas and Minnesota from the South, for first comes the barley and oats to harvest, then the wheat. They came from Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, through Iowa to South Dakota and then North Dakota and Minnesota and still they were needed, and laborers came from mines and lumber camps to help out. Those who arrived first were put on the hay fields and from there they passed on to the barley and wheat. These men earn one dollar and seventy-five cents a day, sometimes three dollars, and get their board. The farmer's wife knows this for they have big appetites, these men who work in the fields all day in the sun, and cooking is going on constantly in the farmers' home. Experience is not necessary, though old hands get better pay, but one feature of this bumper crop was that if a laborer started for the fields and found he was not needed he could pass on to other localities and shift about. As cutting and threshing lasts until late he can pass from one farm to another always moving north, for the same conditions prevail in Canada and there the bumper crop must also be harvested. This country like ours has the transportation, marketing, storage and financial facilities necessary for the development of the great wheat production. It is a long story in which bankers, stock markets, the whole country is concerned, this size of the wheat supply and the city dweller as well as the farmer can rejoice.

In Canada there are farms of one thousand to two thousand acres and in North Dakota there are some big bonanza grain farms of from two thousand to twelve thousand acres. There are hundreds and hundreds of small farms from sixty to two hundred acres in both countries. Preparation and seeding of the ground is but one of the problems, it is the harvesting, the danger of waste, the demand for help that makes the farmer "sweet buzzard" and he must depend on transient labor at that. All this has brought forth marvelous machinery, wonderful threshers which cut, gather, thresh and clean the wheat and pack it for the market without touch of hand. Sometimes machines are drawn by twenty to forty horses, some by an engine is used, but there are many small farms where more primitive processes are employed, for all farmers cannot afford an apparatus that is costly. The threshers also differ. The thresher that snags grain without touch of hand is chiefly applicable for the Pacific Coast farms. Yet, all this is preparatory, for wheat must be transported from the farm to the local market, from the local market to the primary market, from the primary market to the seaboard and from the seaboard to the foreign market. On the Pacific Coast the grain is usually shipped in sacks and in the Dakotas it is more often run into grain tanks, or the cars ready for the great railroad centers into which the wheat concentrates for the local markets. One must think of large numbers in this connection. Minneapolis alone receives about 90,000,000 bushels of wheat a year and Chicago, Winnipeg, Detroit, Port Arthur, Fort William, Duluth, Milwaukee, Toledo, Kansas City and Omaha are other large receiving ports. From many of these towns the wheat moves to the seacoast so that the wheat traffic on the Great Lakes has become immense. Great grain boats carrying 300,000 to 400,000 bushels are common. The Pacific ports also ship their share of wheat. Nor is this all, great railroads network the Northwest and Canada in an endeavor to care for the crops that as a rule await them. One Canadian road has a locomotive capable of pulling 100,000 bushels of grain. At least six of our long trans-continental roads are great grain carriers and distribute it to the Great Lakes or the East. It is interesting to note the movement of the wheat fields and all it implies. Pennsylvania and New York wheat fields were superseded by those of Illinois, and those in turn were overshadowed by the fields of Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas and of late by the Canadian provinces. It is this Northwest trend that has had a tendency to move wheat trade from Chicago to the head of the lakes and to increase the importance of Duluth, Superior, Fort William and Port Arthur as shipping points, for they are at the Western extremity of Lake Superior. All this has produced a natural sequence of events, among them the deepening of channels on the Great Lakes so that boats drawing many feet of water can pass through. Duluth has a magnificent harbor, the largest fresh water harbor in the world, and the distance to Buffalo, a large receiving port, via the lakes is practically the same as from Chicago. No greater indication of the development of the Lake Superior traffic in grain can be found than by statistics obtainable at the St. Mary's Falls canal—famously called "the Soo." All boats from Lake Superior ports to places on the lower lakes or the Georgian Bay and Canada ships much wheat to ports on this body of water, must pass through these canals. Fifteen million bushels of grain have passed through the locks in one month. These are figures to astound the uninitiated. This grain is shipped in bulk in contrast to the treatment on the Pacific Coast where the grain is carried in burlap sacks of about one hundred pounds each. Grain reaches the Pacific ports by rail and it is in this section that the "catapult" machinery is used. It is an epic, a story of many lives and ambitions, this story of the wheat, and little is known of it save to those directly interested. For instance, at all the wheat ports there are great elevators which loom up—built often now of concrete or steel tanks—and by their sides stand the huge freighters in the open season, or whale backs, or boats carrying both grain and passengers. Into the cavernous holds of these vessels the grain rapidly descends. Sometimes these elevators are owned by the farmers or local grain dealers, but there are also "line elevators" controlled by companies who have hundreds situated at the railroad stations in the grain territory. Cars are unloaded at the terminal elevators by means of large scoops worked by machinery and everything is accomplished with speed. Many questions enter into the production of wheat. The farmer must have good roads, railroads must be built, waterways deepened. Our railroads know this and Canada and this country are building and enlarging their lines to the Pacific Coast. The Georgian Bay canal is being considered as a possible factor in grain shipment and the proposed Hudson Bay route will play its part in getting wheat abroad. When the grain is ripe there can be no interfering in cutting, threshing or shipment. It is a busy life in which affairs for a time move at white heat.

CONVENTION OF STATE FIREMEN STUDYING CHANCES OF TRADE

Mass. Association Opened Its First Session in Faneuil Hall Today

When the Panama Canal is Completed — Mexicans Suspect American Ships Favored

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—Fire fighters from all parts of Massachusetts assembled at Faneuil hall this afternoon for the opening of the 33d annual convention of the Massachusetts State Firemen's association. The convention will continue for three days, and the fire fighters will deliver addresses on their experiences and the causes and prevention of fires. The Boston department will participate in the convention by means of a lecture and play, having been completed for a full entertainment of the visiting delegates.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock the convention will be called to order by President J. E. Carey, and addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Fitzgerald and Fire Commissioner Coleman. Business was transacted and addresses by Fire Commissioner Coleman and District Chief Fox followed.

An outline of the intended scope of the work of the Massachusetts firemen and fire companies was the subject of Mr. Coleman's address and District Chief Fox will report on the progress of the principal cause of fire and suggestions for prevention. Walter L. Wedger of Boston will discuss "Some explosive and inflammable substances found in our houses."

A memorial address and silent prayer in behalf of departed comrades will feature the session of the convention this evening. A report of the legislative committee will be read and addresses on the topics will be made by Thomas W. Rogers of engine 6 and Arthur J. Jones of engine 1. The Harvard quartet will sing.

Tomorrow will be largely devoted to a program of keen interest to the delegates. At 10 o'clock in the morning they will assemble at the Commonwealth docks to witness a fire boat exhibition by the Boston department. It will consist of exhibitions of the practical efficiency of the boat protection.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a drill exhibition by a squad of firemen under command of the department will be held. At 7 o'clock in the evening a fire boat exhibition will be held. The fire boat will be carried up onto the building. The high tower at headquarters will be sealed with bannisters and the fire boat will be carried up onto the building. The high tower at headquarters will be sealed with bannisters and the fire boat will be carried up onto the building.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—In Mexico City the Panama canal bill is interpreted as a threat to the Mexican railway. It is reported that there is not a large amount of evidence of what the commerce through the Panama canal will be. Even Japan, now fully active in studying commercial opportunities, is planning a new line of steamships.

Canada is to operate at least two and possibly more direct lines by way of the Panama canal to command some part of the commerce which South America will offer. Between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000 is now invested, or about to be invested, in railroads connecting the interior of South America with the Pacific coast, and almost all of this investment can be traced through the stimulating influence of the Panama canal.

So far as the United States is concerned, there seems to be only two harbor improvement operations underway. One is at Mobile and another is at New York capital in a great harbor near the Brazos river, in Texas. Only one very important railway proposition, that by Newman Ebb, connecting Canada with the Gulf, can be traced to Panama canal influence.

Keen for Trade Chances
Aside from the money which China will expend, provided she can borrow it, in the development of her natural resources, the world's great investment of capital will undoubtedly be made in South and Central America for at least a decade after the opening of the Panama canal.

Nowhere in the world, relatively speaking, at least, is so large an amount of capital now being invested in harbor improvements and railway construction as in the case in South America. Probably the aggregate at this time is not far from $350,000,000. There is no information to the effect that Brazil is now spending about $150,000,000 in the construction of new railway systems.

American bankers and American capital are now employing skilled agents in South America to determine when, how and where to establish branch American banking houses. Recently word has come from South America that the American representative in various South American commercial centers of diplomatic agents of foreign governments, solely to learn what the trade opportunities will be when the canal is completed.

The bright eyed Japanese are found in all parts of South America, keenly studying trade opportunities, and in all parts of South America representatives of various commercial organizations, chambers of commerce, are met with whose business it is to report upon opportunities for the expansion of mutual trade between South American and European countries.

Revenues of the Panama Canal
The latest estimate of some authorities at Panama on the income earning capacity of the canal is totally different from an estimate made by a leading British engineer a few years ago. He was persuaded that the canal would pay for itself in a few years, but the estimate now is that it will not begin to pay the actual cost of operating the canal. Our own experts now say that

License Board Meeting
The license board met in regular session last night but it took only a few minutes to adjourn. The board was composed of John L. Shaw, representing the firemen, and other members of the board. The board was composed of John L. Shaw, representing the firemen, and other members of the board.

SCHOOLBOY EXPELLED
Because He Ignored the American Flag
NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—When the exhibition at the Cedar Grove, N. J., public school opened yesterday morning Leonard Temple, the 17-year-old son of Frederick L. Temple, who is an auditor in New York, was not present. The school board of the village took action last week in regard to the boy's refusal to announce his allegiance to the American flag, and as the boy refused to reconsider, acting under his father's orders, he was expelled. Mr. Temple said: "My son shall not announce his allegiance to the American flag until he is 21 years old and decides for himself. Why should my son or I pledge ourselves to this flag? My son was born in Canada, and I was a lieutenant in the 15th Canadian Infantry when I swore allegiance to the British flag."

The board of education is equally divided in regard to the matter. One of the members of the board said last night: "This Temple boy has caused us trouble before. About a year ago he publicly insulted the flag, and he was asked to apologize, which he did. Now, we cannot have exceptions of this sort in the school, which, after all, is a government institution. If he is not an American, he should go to a private school and let his father or his mother take care of him. If he is an American, he should be treated as such. I am sure that any parent might refuse to educate the boy. He can be reinstated if he reconsiders his decision; otherwise he is expelled."

Bowling News

Is Confident Wilson Will be Elected

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—"There is not a state in the Union," said former Gov. Joseph W. Folk, "that Wilson may not carry. There is not a state in the Union that either Roosevelt or Taft are capable of carrying. Wilson is sure of at least three-fourths of the states, and as the leader of a progressive democracy will have the support of the majority in the electoral college over any other candidate."

"During the past two months I have been in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Michigan and Indiana, and have spoken to several hundred thousands of people. Wilson is overwhelmingly popular everywhere and such any he is growing stronger. His statement against Smith in New Jersey has helped him immensely, for in opposing the type of so-called democracy that passed at good in the days when the people were asleep, he demonstrated his sincerity and the spirit of the new movement."

"In former years, before the great awakening, Taft would have been considered a good president, but he has failed utterly to keep step in the march against corruption. Disappointed Republicans are coming to the democratic party or going to Roosevelt. There is no need for a third party while the democratic party has a standard bearer such as Wilson and Marshall, and there is no objection to the democratic ranks anywhere. Roosevelt will, in my opinion, run second, and will be far ahead of Taft. I believe, and I believe that Roosevelt will get two votes to Taft's one, not only in the west, but even in Ohio, the president's home state. Roosevelt will pull more votes than Taft, while Wilson will carry the state by a good plurality."

"It does not take a prophet to foresee what this will mean. If Roosevelt carries, the more states than Taft, the two parties after the election will be the Roosevelt party and the democratic party. The Republicans will go the way of the dodo and other organizations that have passed away during our political history."

"The chief interest in the election is not as to who will be elected president, for it is decided by all well posted men that the election of Wilson is practically sure. The chief interest is whether Roosevelt will get more votes than 'M. This he will, in my opinion. In Missouri the democrats have a strong and progressive state ticket, and Wilson will carry the state by 75,000 to

Mr. Edgar J. McHugh, and Miss Lottie V. Peterson were married in the parlor of the residence of St. Patrick's parish by Rev. J. J. McHugh, Monday evening, Oct. 7. The bride was becomingly attired in white tulle with white satin trimmings and carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mollie J. Peterson, who wore white tulle with pink satin trimmings and carried pink roses. The groom wore a tuxedo and carried a boutonniere of pink roses. The ceremony was held at 8 o'clock. The bride and groom left for their honeymoon on the 9:15 train for New York city where they will spend a few days before proceeding on their wedding tour. On their return they will reside at 101 Gates street and will be pleased to greet their friends after December 1st.

BABY KILLED

Its Mother Seriously Injured While Pulling Little Son Off Track Yesterday

MIDDLEBORO, Oct. 9.—Shortly before noon yesterday Ethel C. Bradbury, the 5 months old daughter of Francis R. Bradbury, was instantly killed, and her mother seriously hurt, when struck by a Bridgewater-bound car of the Bay State line within sight of their home in Everett street.

Mrs. Bradbury had just left her home carrying her infant daughter in one arm and holding her 4-year-old son Milton with the other, to take them out for a walk. They were going toward the car track, and the motorcar, A. L. Gifford, on seeing her, slowed down the car. The boy ran directly in the path of the oncoming car. His mother pulled the boy out of harm's way, but could not save herself.

The mother was hurried to the Brockton hospital, suffering from a broken arm and bruises to the body, and is thought to have a fractured skull.

Breakfast time should be the "curtain raiser" of a happy day.

But the day can't be a happy one with ill health.

Coffee is often a disturbing factor.

It contains a drug—caffeine—that gets on the nerves of many a naturally happy-tempered man or woman, resulting in "crossness" and irritability.

But now comes

GOV. WILSON NOT FOR FREE TRADE

Candidate Wilson seems to have chosen free trade as his hobby. The abolition of the protective system, in his mind, is the great boon that will set everything right. Abolish protection, and there will be no more trouble with the high cost of living. Abolish protection, and the trusts and the problems connected with the trusts will vanish as mist before the rising sun. Abolish protection, and the acres of the wage-earner will be healed forthwith. Everything will be made right when we "set ourselves free."—Springfield Union.

In the above it would appear that the Springfield Union willfully misrepresents the attitude of Governor Wilson upon the tariff. Mr. Wilson has stated his position so clearly that we do not see any excuse for misunderstanding him. He favors reduction downward and particularly on articles in which the present schedules afford a monopoly. This revision, says Governor Wilson—

"Should begin with the schedules which have been most obviously used to kill competition and to raise prices in the United States, arbitrarily and without regard to the prices pertaining elsewhere in the markets of the world; and it should, before it is finished or interrupted, be extended to every item in every schedule which affords any opportunity for monopoly, for special advantage to limited groups of beneficiaries, or for subsidized control of any kind in the markets or the enterprises of the country; until special favors of every sort shall have been absolutely withdrawn and every part of our laws of taxation shall have been transformed from a system of governmental patronage into a system of just and reasonable charges which shall fall where they will create the least burden. When we shall have done that, we can fix questions of revenue and of business adjustment in a new spirit and with clear minds. We shall then be partners with all the business men of the country, and a day of freer, more stable prosperity shall have dawned."

In another speech Governor Wilson said:

"All that is meant by the dire predictions of those who forecast disaster, if the democrats should be successful, is that the democrats will alter the tariff duties, will lower them, will put a great many articles on the free list, will set the process going which will certainly destroy the special privileges now being enjoyed by many classes of employers in this country."

We believe these quotations should remove all doubt, if any exists, as to Governor Wilson's attitude. He is not for free trade and it is equally wrong to say the democratic party is for free trade for the platform adopted specifically states the contrary.

In view of such statements by Governor Wilson, we cannot see on what ground any paper can say that he is for free trade. We know it is customary for republican papers to shout "free trade" whenever a proposition is made to reduce the tariff to a revenue basis. The republican press is so wedded to the trust and monopoly tariff that they seem to shudder at the thought of a change that would cut off the special privileges that enable large combines to plunder the people. Governor Wilson very plainly says "You cannot have free trade in the United States because the government is of necessity supported by the duties collected at the ports." The present protective system bars us from many of the markets of the world. We can have a lower tariff and a greater export trade that will insure an increase of business instead of the decrease predicted by republicans.

ROOSEVELT REPUUDIATES HIS OWN WORDS

Roosevelt's stock is falling fast. Since the exposure of his 1904 transactions which at that time he denied, nobody who has followed his tergiversations can believe anything he says.

A few days before the election in 1904 Roosevelt issued the following statement as a formal reply to charges made by Judge Parker:—

"Mr. Parker's accusations against me and Mr. Cortelyou are monstrous. If true, they would brand us both forever with infamy, and inasmuch as they are false heavy must be the condemnation of the man making them."

The recent investigations make it appear that Judge Parker's charges are true. They were made twelve days before the election and Roosevelt almost on the eve of the election came out with the quoted reply. Judge Parker remarked that it was "a strangely heated reply." "He has waited," said the judge, "till the closing hours of the campaign to make easier the pretense of an answer; but it is not an answer. It is a confession with a plea of avoidance addressed to a kindly and generous public."

Roosevelt has never made a confession, never admitted an error and now, eight years later, when the light is turned on it shows that, as in many other cases, he lied his way out of the difficulty. Colonel Roosevelt is not willing to accept the alternative of being "forever branded with infamy."

One of Roosevelt's campaign managers in that campaign has recently admitted that 72½ per cent. of the contributions to the Roosevelt campaign came from the trusts and corporations. Hence it can be easily understood why Roosevelt was suddenly changed from a trust buster to a trust booster.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

Judge Enright yesterday fined a man for cruelty to a horse. It seems that these fines are not as frequent as they should be because the offenders are not brought to court. We remember notable instances in which drivers lashed horses unmercifully and most cruelly. We recall one case a few weeks ago. Two men drove a horse drawing a large telephone pole up Wagesit street hill. The horse was willing; but about the middle of the hill it became completely exhausted. The men found themselves in a predicament for they could neither turn the horse around nor to either side owing to the length of the pole. After letting the horse rest a while the driver whipped it unmercifully; but the animal was simply unable to pull the load, which was enough for two good horses on a steep hill.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Fire prevention day is being observed in New York state today and most other states require to cultivate the prevention of fires as much as does New York. The fire fund makes heavy ravages in most states and it is well to have children trained in fire drills and preventive measures as a means of lessening the number of destructive fires, many of which start from a match indiscreetly used by a child, from a brush fire, an overheated flue, the spark from a chimney, or some other familiar cause.

So far as written history knoweth, Gamaliel Bradford introduced in Massachusetts the practice of paying five cents apiece for signatures to petitions. He had plenty of money to do it. So have the bull moose, apparently, and we are beginning to understand where it comes from.—Worcester Post.

The practice of paying for signatures to a petition is a legitimate transaction as compared with that introduced by the republican party of paying for votes at prices regulated by the urgency of the case.

The Portuguese of New Bedford are celebrating the anniversary of the Portuguese republic by parades and other public demonstrations. If the Portuguese republic is to live and flourish, it will not be by adhering to the principles of the founders or those of the I. W. W., so popular with the Portuguese in this country.

It is a very absurd law that shuts out President Taft from getting his electors upon the ballot in California but Mr. Taft should not worry as it means the same in the end anyhow.

Seen and Heard

When a girl tells a man she loves him, he takes it for granted ever afterward. When a man tells a girl he loves her, she expects him to keep on saying it permanently every fifteen minutes.

When a woman is willing to admit to herself that she is plump, other people call her fat.

The man who doesn't say anything when his pencil drops to the floor and breaks the point may be thinking unutterable things.

Even if one man had all the money in the world, before long some woman would have a lot of it.

Poets have written a good deal about the entrancing beauty of the early dawn, but you never hear the milkmen say anything about it.

People continue to complain about the high cost of living, and yet insist that they must have everything they want.

Frightened to Death

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Oct. 8.—Stephen Britto of Naugatuck died yesterday, frightened to death. Britto was a witness to the wrecking of the Boston express last Thursday. In fact he was knocked down by the flying debris. He was picked up conscious, but helpless and removed to the hospital, but nothing could be done for him.

Britto was desired by the Interstate Commerce Commission as a witness.

THE LAWRENCE PARADERS

To Pass Under Arch in Saturday's Game

LAWRENCE, Oct. 8.—There is to be no half-way policy in the conduct of the citizens' patriotic demonstration Saturday.

Not only are the stars and stripes to be the only emblem carried, but the committee yesterday afternoon held a special meeting and decided to have an arch erected over Essex street, near the corner of Franklin street, upon which the purpose of the parade shall be set forth in no uncertain terms.

All paraders are to pass beneath this arch, and in so doing they are to pledge all allegiance to the American flag and as well renounce the acts of violence and the propaganda of the Industrial Workers of the World.

Contributions to the parade fund are beginning to come in, a check for $500 from Aaron Ordway of New York city, a former resident, who still has ready holdings here, being one of the early ones received. Flurries at land yesterday indicated that upwards of 25,000 men, women and children will be in line, including 3,000 Italians, who in participating will waive their right to carry the flag of their native land, which they so earnestly sought Monday night.

The citizens' committee has asked that all places of business be closed during the parade Saturday morning. Vincent St. John, national secretary of the I. W. W., telegraphed Mayor Scanlon from Chicago, warning him that the members of the citizens' committee will be held personally responsible for any violence that may come to the I. W. W. leaders.

"If necessary, we will make grass grow in the streets of Lawrence," the message ended. One arrest having a bearing upon the situation was made yesterday, a Greek named John Pappas being one of two who are alleged to have attacked a man wearing a flag. Two policemen in citizens' clothes were close at hand and caught Pappas.

A BREACH OF PROMISE

Boston Woman Sues Man for $12,000

BOSTON, October 8.—In a suit for breach of promise asking $12,000 in the Suffolk court filed yesterday by Rebecca Siegel, a comely Russian widow of 45, against Abraham I. Greenberg, a North End business man of 60, she unfolds a story of love at first sight and breach of ancient Jewish law.

Last May the defendant mourned his wife according to Jewish custom eight days, the rule prescribed being that Mr. Greenberg should not marry inside of 30 days following the death of his wife.

After five days, however, Mr. Greenberg was alleged to have yielded to the lures of a matchmaker, who, among his interest in the pretty widow so that she avers he fell desperately in love with her the moment he saw her, she alleged that he could not wait for the customary 30 days and importuned her to marry him and to decide secretly at her house. She says she consented, but then she says the defendant had a complete change of heart.

GRAND LODGE A. O. U. W.

Held Special Session in Boston Yesterday

A special meeting of the Grand Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen was held yesterday in Ford hall in Boston and was one of the most enthusiastic meetings of its kind ever held.

A large amount of business was to be transacted, most of which had to be indefinitely postponed. The principal move was to raise the assessment of members, and this measure received a practical and unquestionable defeat.

The special session was called to order at 10:45 a. m. by Grand Master Workman John A. Clark. 211 lodges were represented; Massachusetts, 141; New Hampshire, 19; Vermont, 1. Number of representatives present, 308; number of life members and Grand lodge officers, 18; total voting strength, 326.

P. M. W. B. Libby of Roslindale, the leader for the committee of ten, offered a motion early in the meeting to allow visiting brothers seats in the gallery, but the motion was declared out of order.

The committee of 25 selected at the last Grand Lodge session to bring in a table of rates and report at a special session to be held in October, made their report which they claimed to be unanimous, but P. M. W. A. B. Pierce of Natick lodge, a member of that committee, reported that he was not in favor of the table of rates as reported and he made a stirring appeal to the members not to accept the committee's recommendations at this time. W. B. Libby of Fairview lodge, Roslindale, took the floor and proceeded to discuss the report of the committee of 25, section by section. He rebuked the Grand Lodge officers for keeping the members in ignorance of the passage of the so-called Mobile bill. The convention decided by a vote of 202 to 100 to indefinitely postpone any action in regard to a change in rates.

Enthusiasm was the keynote of this convention and every speaker was given the closest attention and as they concluded their remarks were applauded. Past Grand Libby was the principal leader against the proposed rates. There was intense crowding and canvassing among the delegates to ascertain how their lodge stood on the vital questions. From all over the state came the cry "Amend or repeal the 'Mobile' bill," which would ruin any fraternal beneficiary organization if the requirements are lived up to. Every lodge in Massachusetts will interview all candidates to the legislature and find out their attitude and in order to get the support of the fraternal societies they will be called upon to pledge themselves as to vote for the repeal of this pernicious and inhuman bill which Gov. Foss allowed to become a law without his signature.

Lowell lodge of this city was represented at the grand lodge session by P. M. W. Frederick G. Hummel, Leon Wernin, William Trevell and Olin E. Osswald, who were active organization with their lady friends will be honored guests. There will be a splendid entertainment and refreshments, and P. M. W. Brothers Libby and titles of Roslindale will deliver addresses on the present conditions of the Workmen in Massachusetts.

Lowell lodge will observe "Indian" night at Odd Fellows Temple, Middlesex street, next Thursday, Oct. 10, at 8 o'clock. Parole lodge of Lawrence, with their lady friends will be honored guests. There will be a splendid entertainment and refreshments, and P. M. W. Brothers Libby and titles of Roslindale will deliver addresses on the present conditions of the Workmen in Massachusetts.

MOCK TRIAL WAS HELD

By Young Men's Club of St. Anne's Church

The young men's club of St. Anne's church held a mock trial last night which furnished no end of amusement for those who were present.

The case which was tried grew out of the alleged theft of a bench from the Sunday school room of St. Anne's parish. J. H. Brooks as judge, presided over these solemn court proceedings, while Newell Harris and Alton Morse were the "prisoners." "Sheriff" John Hopkins with a full cad uniform on, was the policeman who made the arrest of the criminals.

All the usual court routine was gone through and the affair was a great success in every way. The witnesses, for the court, Frederick Klesied and Prescott Grover for the defendants, and they took off their parts very well with unique "make-ups" of blue ink.

The jury brought in the inevitable finding of "guilty." Fines for contempt of court were frequent and constant and dire threats were employed as a means of preserving order.

The judge imposed a sentence of hanging on the two prisoners.

Bridge Badly Damaged

NEWBURYPORT, Oct. 8.—Plum Island bridge, connecting the island with this city and Newbury, was badly damaged by the storm yesterday. The central part of the structure will have to be entirely rebuilt. The fire started it is thought, from an electric wire. Chemical engines from the Central fire station of this city, as well as a number of men in the employ of the railroad company, were sent down to fight the flames, and their arrival alone saved the structure from destruction.

SAFE WAS BLOWN OPEN

Burglars Entered Goffstown Postoffice

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 9.—The safe in the Goffstown post office was blown open early this morning and a large quantity of stamps and a considerable amount of money stolen. Two men, with the goods upon them, were arrested by Policeman H. J. Smith of the Manchester department as they were entering the city after a long chase and had light been put up.

At the police headquarters the men gave the names of William Morrison of Waterbury, Conn., aged 51 years, and James Wilson of Burlington, Vt., aged 45. When searched by the police, the prisoners had on them all the appliances of a burglar's kit, including a 35 calibre revolver, bottle of nitro glycerine, fuses and dynamite. The entrance to the post office was made by prying the front door. The safe was completely wrecked. The stamps to the amount of $70 and money in the sum of $5.50 were recovered from the prisoners.

WHO RANG ALARM?

Police Looking for the Party Who Sounded Alarm From Box 283 Yesterday

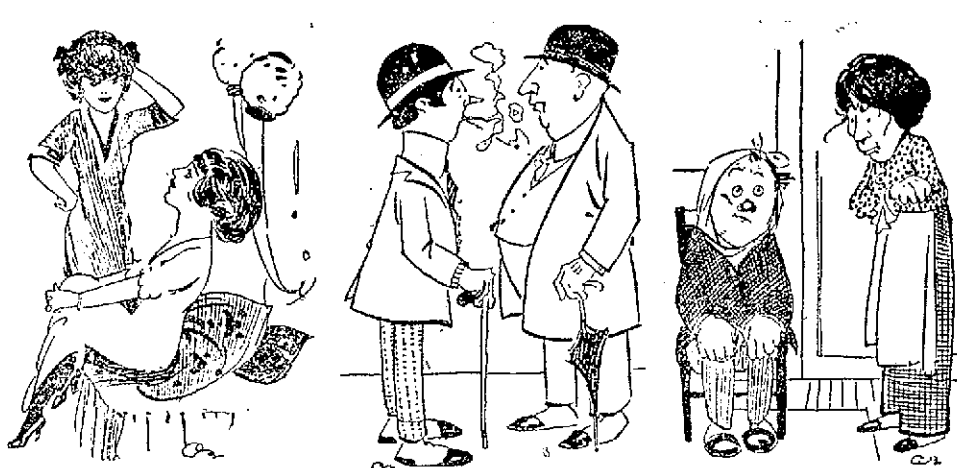

There is no clue as yet to the identity of the person who pulled in the false alarm from box 283 shortly before 9 o'clock yesterday morning, but the police are working on the case and expect to be able to apprehend the guilty party before long.

Chief Hosmer of the fire department is of the opinion that it was some grown-up person instead of boys who did the job, particularly because the boys who would think of doing such a thing would be at school at that time, and secondly because the box is situated rather high from the ground.

Y. M. C. A. Building

October 22 is the date set for the dedication of the new Y. M. C. A. gymnasium and everything is expected to be ready for the event by that time. Dr. Sargent has been selected to speak on the occasion and there will be in all probability several others. As yet the equipment of the gymnasium has not arrived and the place is not quite finished. Further particulars of the dedication will be made public later.

"Son—You certainly don't blame me because you are a backslider."

Sent to Penitentiary. NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Archibald D'Alary of the Photoplate Oil Co. of Providence pleaded guilty today to a federal indictment charging him with conspiracy to defraud the government of duties on olive oil imported from Greece, and was sentenced to serve three months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's island. On the single importation specified, Dist. Atty. Wise told the court the government had been defrauded of $14,500.

D'Alary made an impassioned plea for clemency, in which he asserted that he had simply done the bidding of his employer, W. L. G. Photoplate, who dropped him during the grand jury proceeding which named him as a defendant in the conspiracy.
